JOHN HARPER.

THE HARPER BROTHERS.

"ALL, all are gone, the old, familiar faces." The death of Fletcher Harper closes the record of the Harper Brothers—their personal record, for it cannot too often be called to mind that the record of their influence will not be closed so long as one book bearing the name of Harper remains to us. It seems altogether proper and desirable that with this occasion some more extended notice of their leadership in and connection with the trade than has yet been made should be entered upon its permanent annals, and the Publishers' Trade-List Annual of 1877 appears the fit place for its presentation. But their most worthy memorial will be from the pen of him, honoring and honored of them all, who is of all men most competent to the grateful yet sad task, in a memorial which Mr. George William Curtis is preparing for publication. In this will also appear the steel-plate portraits of the four brothers which accompany the present article. These portraits were engraved after photographs from life by Mr. F. Halpin some few years since, and picture most faithfully the widely-different features of the four, reflecting the varied characteristics of ability and temperament that gave to their unity strength.

It has been often remarked, as each of the brothers passed away, that in telling the life of one, it was necessary to write the history of all. In attempting briefly to follow this history, it is the most difficult of tasks to preserve in the record the individuality of each, strongly marked as it was, amidst the interwoven chain of mutual achievement. The blue, the yellow, the red are the most opposite of colors, yet they are lost in the perfect unity of the white light into which they blend. This analogy the Harper Brothers entirely fulfilled in the sphere of commercial activity. It might well have been the elder Harper of whom the fable of the fagots is told. Their strength was the strength of diversity in unity. This principle must be read between the lines through every page of their record; nor can their history be rightly read without keeping in mind also other great moral and social principles underlying their success and all success. The malcontent of to-day who looks upon the vast wealth, strength, and influence of the Harper establishment, that on Franklin Square faces the entire United States, is apt not to realize what it really means. It is a proof text in social science, in political economy, in the relations of labor and capital, in all the many phases of the great question which is confronting this country with such terrible threats and turbulences on the part of men who clamor for "a better chance." The Harper establishment, which now represents millions of capital, has been built up entirely within one generation, by four men who were the sons of a country mechanic, and who started without any capital but the labor of their own hands. But this "one generation" means fifty years of unremitting work. These men succeeded not because of a stroke of fortune or any accident of advantage, but by the slow and sure steps of obeying those laws which, beyond the control of men, underly industrial progress and all civilized life. Had they defied or disregarded these laws, or been more in a hurry to make their fortune, the house they founded would never have existed, to enlighten and elevate thousands, down to even the most humble of the community, and, in times of the utmost distress, to give sure and steady employment to the hundreds of men and women who are now in the position from which these men started. Their business principles were that each should command in his field, but that nothing should be done without the approval of all; that each step forward should be based on and justified by the steps before; that there should be the utmost enterprise and the utmost caution; that they would be as independent as possible of outside shocks by never inflating their business beyond natural limits; that they would do the best work, but do enough of it to do it at the cheapest; that they would have and keep the best men, by careful discrimination in favor of ability, experience, and length of service, and by assuring them of permanent positions at the rate these qualities should command; that they would treat their employés as one man should treat another. These guiding principles, thoroughly American, equally essential in their application to the conduct of our government or to individual success, should, it may be repeated, be kept in mind in reading of the progress of their commercial greatness.

The founder of the Harper family in America, James, came to this country from England about 1740. He settled at Newtown, Long Island, not far from Brooklyn, and became the schoolmaster to the place. In the old country he had been a follower of Wesley, and at Newtown he became a member of the first Methodist church organized on Long Island. Here he lived for many years, though at one time he made a venture in New York and kept store in Maiden Lane. At the house in Newtown his son Joseph, the father of the brothers, was born in 1766. Joseph was, according to report, a universal genius, but house-carpentry became his special calling, and he owed his wife to his trade. It was while at work on the house of a well-to-do Dutch farmer, Mynher Kolyer, that he courted and won his daughter Elizabeth, a shrewd, steadfast, admirable woman, of remarkable humor, well educated for her day, and speaking both the English and Dutch languages. The Methodists were at that day looked down upon by the Dutch plutocracy of Newtown as humble folk, and Joseph Harper did not win his wife without fighting for her. They were married April 9th, 1792, and lived in most happy life to a good old age, he to 84, when the great house of Harper and Brothers was at the height of its first prosperity, and she to 72. After his marriage, Joseph established himself at Middle Village, between Newtown and Brooklyn, where, with the help of his thrifty wife, he added store-keeping to his previous occupation. The old house is still standing, and the brothers made frequent pilgrimages to it. It was a "preachers' home," and the brothers got much good from their visitors. Here were born the four brothers and a sister who died in childhood, and here Joseph lived till the eventful year 1817, when the firm of J. & J. Harper was founded and Wesley was apprenticed to the business, and the father thought the home should be with the boys and so moved to New York. But he returned to his earlier home in old age.

Thus two good stocks, English pluck and Dutch thrift, came together in the Harper blood, and combined for the success of the brothers. They were born, James, April 13th, 1795; John, Jan. 22d, 1797; Joseph Wesley, Dec. 25th, Christmas day, 1801; Fletcher, Jan. 31st, 1806. The oldest and youngest were thus about ten years apart, and they died within about eight years of each other, all reaching their threescore years and ten, Wesley excepted, who lacked but two of the seventy. They had the most solid foundation for solid success—good blood, a wholesome home, country boyhood, self-reliant youth, with neither poverty nor riches to dispirit or demoralize. The great city across the river offered abundant opportunity, and that wise apprenticeship system which brought into trade almost the relations of the home was still possible. Under these circumstances, James came to New York, in December, 1810, at the age of fifteen, and was indentured to Mr. Paul, of Paul & Thomas, printers, at the corner of Burling Slip and Water St., known to the elder Harper as a brother Wesleyan and altogether a safe man with whom to trust a young country lad making his start in New York. Years after he pointed out to one of his nephews the cellar in which he did his first work in the trade—cutting up wood, which, as the "devil," he used afterwards to carry to the top story, where the composing room was. James Harper at once made his mark. The habits which he brought from the country he kept in the city; he joined the John St. Methodist Church and opened a prayer-meeting at the house of an old colored woman in Ann St.; he was an abstemious and economical man, in days when temperance was not the fashion and indeed exposed its votaries to severe scoffs. But all this made a solid basis of success which soon put a stop to scoffing, and with the tall frame and long reach of arm that gave him unusual advantages as a press-man, he soon gained a reputation as the quickest man in this field in New York, while industrious work on over-time was earning him capital also in dollars and cents. Thurlow Weed was another smart fellow in the same work-room. In 1812, at the same age, John followed James to New York and was indentured to a printer named Seymour, whose name is still familiar to the trade in connection with the Seymour Paper Company, which has developed from the germ of his business. John followed James also on the highroad to success; he became noted as one of the best compositors and proof-readers in town, and the "over-time" of the two was said to be greater than that of any other two men in the trade. The result was that in 1817, soon after the expiration of James' apprenticeship, John was able to buy out the remainder of his apprentice time from his master, and with their savings and some little assistance from their father, they were enabled to start out for themselves as "J. and J. Harper, Printers," in a little place in Dover St. At this time their father came to New York, to give a home to his boys; Wesley was indentured to his brothers, and Fletcher was put at school—for some time in Roosevelt St., where Alexander T. Stewart was a teacher.

At the time the Harpers entered business, the book production of this country was estimated at about $2,500,000 yearly—a sum which was exceeded in the annual product of their own house before the death of the founders. The trade was engaged chiefly in reprinting English books, which, it is figured, engrossed fully seventy per cent of the total manufacture. Few of the men who have made American literature were yet writing, and the trade had comparatively few relations with authors. The American book trade was in its infancy, yet among its members are to be found several names still known in these later days. Among those for whom the Harpers printed books in the first few years were Evert Duyckinck, Collins & Hannay, afterwards Collins & Co., their largest customers; L. & F. Lockwood, Bangs & Mason, and John Doyle. Elam Bliss, James Eastburn, T. & J. Swords, the Blunts, George Long, Jonathan Leavitt, and John P. Haven were also, we gather, among the New York trade during the first ten years of the Harper house.

The first book which bears the imprint of the two brothers was printed—August, 1817, in an edition of 2000 copies—for the elder Duyckinck, an honored name in the annals of the American book trade and of American literature, This was "Seneca's Morals. | By way of abstract. | To which is added, | A Discourse, | under the title of | An After-Thought. | By Sir Roger L'Estrange, Knt. | Fifth American edition. | New-York: | Published by Evert Duyckinck, No. 68 Water-Street. | J. & J. Harper, printers. | 1817." It was a 16mo, bound in the old-fashioned leather, and a copy which is before us shows that it prophesied the general get-up of the Harper publications, with its plain, compact page and thoroughly good press-work. A copy in the possession of Mr. John W. Harper, from which we are by his courtesy enabled to present a fac-simile, possesses historic interest. It was picked up on a Baltimore bookstall, by Mr. W. C. Prime, when all the brothers were still alive, and was one day brought to the house by him with the request to Mr. Harper that he would procure the attest and signatures of his father and uncles on the fly-leaf. These signatures, with the particulars as to their part in the work, make the book, which by the generosity of Mr. Prime has come into the possession of the family, a treasure of unique value in the archives of the trade. The first publication of Daniel Appleton, a tiny volume of Scripture texts, was exhibited by Mr. Wm. H. Appleton at the Centennial Exhibition. The execution of the Seneca and its promptness of delivery were so satisfactory to Mr. Duyckinck that he gave the brothers a second order, in December, for 2500 copies of John Mair's "Introduction to Latin Syntax." Another early publication, in the extraordinary collection of pamphlets of Mr. Gordon L. Ford, publisher of the Tribune, is "The Substance of a Sermon," by the Rev. Francis Ward, having the printing imprint of "James and John Harper," which is not known to appear in this full shape elsewhere.

The early work of the Harpers seems to have been good throughout, but business was dull, and, with the best reputation, they could not obtain orders to the extent their persistent enterprise demanded. Accordingly they determined to venture publishing a book for themselves, but before doing so, they canvassed the trade for advance orders, offering to place on the title-page the name of any bookseller ordering a certain number of copies. This fashion in publishing is as old as the Shakespeare folios, but the Harpers seem to have revived it. The book selected was John Locke's "Essay upon the Human Understanding," of which they cautiously printed 500 copies. It has been noted that the selection of this book foretold the solid character of their list; it may be added that the combination of enterprise and caution which they displayed in putting it forth foretold the methods of their after-success.

The first removal was to 138 Fulton St., near Broadway; thence the firm came back to their old neighborhood, at 230 Pearl St. Each time they were driven out by fire, which plays almost as important a part as paper in the history of the house. But every time the misfortune was prevented from being a calamity by the energy of the brothers. An old compositor, writing long after, describes how he "helped to move your office on a cold morning in 1822 from the north to the south side of Pearl St., over the bookstore of Collins & Hannay;" and he adds that he had time to do some type-setting before breakfast—another outcome, doubtless, of Harper pluck. Through these years, the firm printed largely for other publishers, Bibles for the Collins house recurring constantly on the books, but launched out more and more for themselves. They began to reprint Scott's works—over which there was great competition; on the 14th of March, 1823, they announced "Peveril of the Peak," of which they had that day received a copy, to be ready to-morrow, and within twenty-one hours of receipt the book was published. This feat was repeated in 1836, with the memoir of Lucien Bonaparte. In 1823, after six years' apprenticeship, Wesley was admitted to the firm. While living at home, he had always been charged a stated sum for his board, by the foresighted father, and now he was told that this amount should be added to his own savings as his capital in the business. Fletcher had meanwhile been indentured, and it was promised him that when he could show $500 savings he too should be a partner. This condition was fulfilled in 1825, when he was but nineteen years old, and in that year the firm became complete. The firm name, however, was not changed to its present world-known style of Harper & Brothers until 1833. In that year the "Tim Linkinwater" of these Brothers Cheeryble, Mr. Wm. H. Demarest, the present cashier, came into the house as a journeyman printer, and one of the first things he remembers is setting up the new imprint. It was about this time also that the house began to confine itself to printing its own publications. The firm remained intact for forty-four years, since none of the second generation entered the firm until the original brotherhood was broken by the death of James, the oldest, in 1869. It was one of his wise witticisms, probably, that so well expressed not only the outer but the inner constitution of the house: "Either is Mr. Harper, and all the rest are the brothers." For many years no separate accounts were kept, each brother drawing according to his need. As families grew up about them, and inequality of expense followed, Wesley, whose family was the largest, expressed scruples about this communal arrangement, and on his remonstrance it was changed. But the feeling of absolute trust in each other never changed.

The enterprise of the brothers is best shown in the great undertakings started and carried on between the completion of the firm and the great fire. On their removal from Pearl St., they secured the building 82 Cliff St., which lot has ever since formed part of the establishment. In 1830 they began to stereotype, and this gave new power. Their first stereotyping-room was in the second story of a brick building which they purchased at 79–81 Cliff St., opposite, a family living on the first floor. This gave way, about 1835, to a building put up by them, and which still occupies the lots so numbered. A fourth fire occurred in the summer of 1842, when the gable and upper stories of the Cliff St. office were destroyed. This proved a blessing in disguise, for the $45,000 paid by the insurance companies formed a cash capital most useful just then in the competition with Winchester's New World and the other huge sheets and newspaper libraries such as are again rivalling, with ten-cent extras and pamphlets, the brown-covered library. But their day was soon over. It was lively enough while the fray lasted, and the chief rivalry was in reaching the incoming steamers, for foreign sheets or periodicals, farthest out at sea. Fletcher particularly enjoyed the excitement of those times, and has been heard to lament the comparative quiet of later days.

One of their early enterprises was the old series of "Select Novels," in green covers, which were succeeded by the now famous brown-covered "Library of Select Novels," started with "Pelham," in July, 1842, and now reaching close to 500 volumes. The "Family Library," the thing of its day, and extending to over two hundred volumes, was commenced in 1843, in twenty-five cent paper volumes, and it did a vast deal to promote home education throughout this country. This was chiefly reprint of English standards, but it embraced many recent and original works. There were also Harper's "Select Library" of standard literature, of about 300 volumes; "School Library," 37 volumes; "Dramatic Library," 5 volumes; "Theological Library," 7 (?) volumes; "Pocket Novels;" "New Miscellany," 26 volumes; "Boy's and Girl's Library," 32 volumes; "Story-Books," 36 volumes, of which not the least interesting is the illustrated description of "The Harper Establishment;" "Fireside Library," 9 volumes; "Classical Library," 37 volumes; "New Classical Library," 24 volumes, and the "Greek and Latin Texts." The books of the Abbotts and Barnes' Notes were other great enterprises. Harper's Family Bible, with 3000 illustrations, begun in 1843, was the wonder of its day. In all, previous to the great fire, the house published 1549 works in 2028 volumes, of which works 722 were original and 827 reprint. Nearly the same number have since been published, but the proportion of original works has gradually increased. The sums paid out to authors have been enormous; of those to American authors may be mentioned, to Mr. Marcius Wilson, the author of their series of school readers, about $200,000; to the late Prof. Charles Anthon, about $100,000; to Mr. Motley, about $60,000; to Jacob Abbott, about $50,000; to Albert Barnes, $75,000. Although the reprint business, as in other American houses, has been built up in the absence of international copyright, over $300,000 has also been paid for foreign works, as acknowledgment or royalty.

The "new departure" into periodical literature occurred in 1850—a most important date in the development of the house, especially in its direct public influence. Graham's Magazine and Godey's Lady's Book were then the leading American monthlies, Dr. R. W. Griswold's International Magazine being added the same year as Harper's Monthly. James, to whom is due the conception of the magazine, saw that there was opportunity for a more solid and comprehensive, while thoroughly popular, monthly, and the brothers agreed with him, Fletcher assuming the practical development of the idea with the satisfaction of one who had found his true calling. The first number was printed June, 1850, and a large edition was ventured. The "Word at the Start" shows that the full success of the magazine was anticipated in the original plan. The publishers proposed by "a careful, industrious, and intelligent use" of their advantages, to "present a monthly compendium of the periodical publications of the day which no one who has the slightest relish for miscellaneous reading, or the slightest desire to keep himself informed of the progress and results of the literary genius of his own age, would willingly be without. And they intend to publish it at so low a rate, and to give to it a value so much beyond its price, that it shall make its way into the hands of the family circle of every intelligent citizen of the United States." The last paragraph lays down a principle connected with the success not only of the periodicals but of the books of the house, against which, in all the hue and cry,—justified, in some cases, by padding in paper and print, —it has never been alleged that they were "too high." The magazine was planned to be an all-embracing eclectic: in the first number of 144 pages are not only current stories, sketches, and poems from periodicals, but extracts from books, copied reviews, newspaper scraps, and odds and ends of various sorts such as are gathered to-day upon the outside of country newspapers. "Maurice Tiernay," the serial, leads off. The editorial departments are the "Monthly Record of Current Events," with several pages devoted to a record of crime; literary notices, covering Bryant's "Letters of a Traveller" and Bayard Taylor's "Eldorado," published by Geo. P. Putnam, and a novel from Baker & Scribner; and the illustrated fashion department. There were no other illustrations except busts, with brief sketches, of Alison, Macaulay, and Prescott. Henry J. Raymond was the first editor,—a selection showing that the publishers meant to have capable men at the helm. Throughout the first volume the material is credited to the periodicals whence it was taken. The success of the magazine outstripped all expectation; at the close of the first volume the publishers' "advertisement" announced a circulation of 50,000 copies. It was added: "They will spare neither labor nor expense in any department of the work; freely lavishing both upon the editorial aid, the pictorial embellishments, the typography and the general resources by which they hope to give the magazine a popular circulation, unequaled by that of any single periodical ever published in the world." The journalistic instincts behind it made the monthly flexible to the popular demand and secured its rapid development. One of the early changes was the introduction of illustrations, made more and more of until now a number frequently counts more than one hundred, costing over $3000. Another was the dropping of the minor scraps at first used to fill out corners in the make-up, a change that added much to the dignity of the magazine. Another was the omission of credits, for which cause was found in the desire of readers not to have reminders poked under their eyes that some one else had read the article first, and justification in the facts that the magazine proclaimed itself an eclectic, and that on the other side of the Atlantic English editors freely used American articles without any kind of credit. In fact, Mr. Raymond was once caught by using an apparently English article which proved to have been copied from Putnam's Magazine. The rivalry of this monthly, started in January, 1853, caused more attention to be given to American articles; that of the Atlantic, from November, 1857, has had its influence in elevating the general literary standard of the magazines; while the more recent establishment of Scribner's Monthly has greatly promoted the art character of magazine illustration, as may be seen at a glance by placing a Harper's of to-day alongside of one of ten years ago. None of these later enterprises have interfered with the success or circulation of the latter chiefly because the flexibility of the Harper's plan has enabled it to meet every fresh demand to which the public has been educated by itself and by rivals. It would astonish most readers to learn, despite the manuscripts sent to the Harper periodicals each year, how large a proportion are the result of the suggestive enterprise of the house and its editors. Under this management the magazine increased from the 50,000 of 1850 to over 125,000 on the completion of the fiftieth half-yearly volume. One remarkable feature of the policy of the house has been the almost exclusive use of the advertising portion of the Monthly for its own purposes, at a negative cost of over $100,000 per year. Only a business of the utmost magnitude and diversity could make this seeming sacrifice pay.

The continuous increase of the business, to which the success of the Monthly greatly added, caused new purchases of property, under the business management of John, until, in 1853, the establishment occupied nine contiguous buildings on Cliff and Pearl streets, and was valued at a million of dollars. Six hundred people were employed, two hundred and fifty in the bindery and folding-rooms, and the press-room contained thirty-three Adams presses, of which twelve were used exclusively for the Magazine. It was on December 10th, just as the January magazine was going to press, that the great fire in a few hours swept away this vast property. A careful plumber, who had been making repairs in the press-room, fearing lest a bit of paper which he had lighted might set fire to the stock, threw it into what he supposed was a pail of water. It was, instead, camphene, used for cleaning the rollers, and it blazed instantly. By afternoon the brothers saw their possessions reduced to ashes. Nothing was left of the establishment except the stereotype plates in the vaults. The insurance was not an eighth of the loss. Most men, at the age of fifty and sixty, would have been discouraged by the disaster. Not so the brothers. As they stood watching the flames, John took out his watch, quietly observed that it was dinner-time, and said they had better come to his house that night to talk it over. And when they were gathered, it was he who broke the silence. They were no longer young, they could retire on a competence, but "Our business," said John Harper, "is too valuable to be given up, or to be allowed to pass into other hands. We have all of us sons. They have helped us, and will soon be able to take our places. We will carry on the business, and show the boys that we are not 'old fogies' yet." The decision was made, and telegrams were at once sent to Boston, ordering new Adams presses to the full capacity of the works for several months. This promptness was a great stroke, for by mail next day went orders for new presses from several rival establishments, who looked to the disaster for an immediate increase of their own business. Contributors to the magazine were telegraphed to for fresh copy, and arrangements were made for the use of presses in Boston, New York, and Philadelphia. That very night John began to plan the new building, for which the original memoranda were found, after his death, among his papers. Once he had said, in the old office, "I should like to plan a perfect printing-office on this ground;" at this cost, his opportunity had come. His building was to be of brick and iron, absolutely fire-proof, and his minute knowledge of the details of the business, the length of the presses, the amount of room a man needed to work in, and the thousand other data, enabled him to plan out everything. He set his oldest son to calculating the number of bricks required, but he himself had finished the sum first. His plans were so complete that no architect was required for the building. The device of the communicating tower, with its iron bridges, between the two parts of the building, to obviate stairways, and the use of the modern iron column and truss, are two leading features which make the present establishment at once one of the safest and the most economical of space, in the world. It was just at the time of the Harper fire that, at Mr. Peter Cooper's inspiration and under the inventive genius of William Borrow, who died from the results of his intense application to his task, the Trenton Iron Works had completed its machinery for the manufacture of these rolled iron beams, which were to be used in the Cooper Institute; they were thus ready to John's hand, and the Harper building is said to be the first in which they were introduced. The present establishment, covering half an acre of ground, supported by two hundred and fifty columns and more than two thousand connecting arches, is a superb monument to that sagacity and foresight of the Harper brothers which, after insuring their success as business men, was turned as successfully, at this sudden call, into the new direction of business architecture. The day after the fire, men were put to work in temporary quarters remaking the January magazine, an office was secured in Sheffield's paper warehouse, corner of Beekman and Gold streets, and before the bricks of the old establishment were cold, workmen were clearing away for the new. In 1854, less than a year after, the new building was occupied.

In 1856–7 a new step was taken: the first number of the Weekly was published, under date of January 3d, 1857. This was Fletcher's idea, and became his pet. Though he wrote nothing for it —indeed he wrote nothing for any of the periodicals, so far as can be learned—he was always behind it. The periodical staff recognized him as their especial chief. The Weekly showed the same capacity of development in line with the popular demand. It was at first without cuts—to us, now, a dead-looking affair. Fletcher soon saw the need, and introduced the feature which has since made the Weekly what it is. How that feature has been steadily developed is only fully shown in a study of its files. Like the Monthly, the Weekly was a success from the start; it steadily climbed to over 150,000 circulation. Theodore Sedgwick was its first editor. At the start it confined itself chiefly to non-political matters, but just previous to the war it began to be a national power. Its influence was thrown against the abolitionist or Republican party, and this fact, with the letter written to a Southern correspondent, has been the foundation of the only imputation ever cast, to our knowledge, upon the brothers: the charge that their political views were influenced by their commercial interests at the South. This imputation is not in consonance with the recorded character of the brothers in other particulars, and is to be attributed rather to the difference in the present point of view. The columns of the Weekly, through 1860 and 1861, seem to us now arrantly disunion, simply because the war brought the North into the belief that the Southern slaveholders, and not the Northern abolitionists, were the real disunionists. To a large class of honest, patriotic men, among whom were the Harper Brothers and many other New York merchants of their standing, this did not appear; they were intense Union-lovers, who honestly and even violently considered the existence or non-existence of slaverly utterly secondary to the existence of the Union; and their love of country went out in distrust of the abolitionists who made the existence of the Union secondary to what we now recognize as the glorious and Union-saving purpose of the freedom of man. It was the development of the aggressive attitude of the South, doubtless, that accounts for the change one finds creeping over the editorial opinions of the Weekly, until, from Mr. Lincoln's stout opponent, the advocate of compromise as the foundation of the Union, it became, with the attack on Sumter, the most uncompromising of his supporters and one of the strongest allies of the government.

Fletcher's enterprise found full scope during the war; one of his first strokes was to make every officer of our armies and navy an attaché of the Weekly, by offering to send it free to any Union officer who forwarded his address, and asking in turn sketches of any places or events of interest to the people at home. This enterprise got the Weekly into trouble. A view of our works before Yorktown, useful to the Confederates, caused the suspension of the paper. "Following the order was a telegram from the Secretary, stating that the firm had been guilty of 'giving aid and comfort to the enemy' (an offense punishable with death), and requesting that some member of the firm should immediately proceed to Washington—whether to suffer that extreme penalty being left in doubt. The mission devolved upon Fletcher Harper. He found the Secretary of War in a very belligerent mood; but before five words had been exchanged, he contrived to put Mr. Stanton on the defensive on a matter wholly foreign to the object of his visit, and before leaving the War Office he secured the revocation of the order of suspension, and received the Secretary's thanks for the support which the Weekly was rendering the country and the government." During and after the war, the Weekly was strongly Republican, following the altered conviction of Fletcher and the brothers, and the drawings of Mr. Nast and Mr. Curtis' editorials, behind which was the suggesting but never dictating mind of Fletcher, were an immense power. That the two departments were not always in entire accord on details of policy was doubtless partly due to Fletcher's conviction—a part of the unwritten law of the business—that every man worked at his best by being allowed to work in his own way, provided it did not conflict with the general principles of the house. When the time came for a new war, the attack on the Tweed Ring, the Weekly was not found wanting. The former managing editor of the Times, Mr. S. S. Conant, was then its managing editor. The Ring, in retaliation, threatened to and did take the text-books published by the Harpers out of the New York schools. Overtures of negotiation were previously made, but the firm, by this time composed chiefly of the second generation, decided in consultation that they could do no otherwise than they had done. Soon after Fletcher came again to the house, and said: "Boys, you couldn't have done anything else. If you had given way in the least to the demands of the Ring, I never could have set foot in this building again." This was the mettle that made the Weekly.

The same year with the foundation of the Weekly came the great panic of 1857, and the house, like many great establishments, was endangered. The credit which had been won for it by John's financial management carried it through, and saved this great producing agency to the country.

The third periodical, Harper's Bazar, was started under date of November 2d, 1867. This also was an idea of Fletcher, and may be looked upon as the final outcome of the fashion department which was an original feature of the Monthly. For some time he carried his plan around inside his hat,—the hat he always put on when he walked off to think out something that needed thinking of, and out of which, they used to say, "all the ideas came,"—and then he broached it to the brothers. At first the others drew back, and he offered, if they would permit him, to take the risk himself. "No," said John Harper, "we have never done anything separately. We won't make this an exception. I think brother Fletcher shall have his way, and we will start the Bazar."

The Bazar, of Berlin, suggested the name and to some extent the plan, and while abroad Fletcher made arrangements for duplicates of its plates. The name being thus provided, the heading and make-up were to be considered.

Mr. Charles Parsons, long at the head of the art department, designed the former, and the design, after many modifications, went into Fletcher's hat. He used to ask everybody, referring to the sub-title, what they took the word "pleasure" to mean. Finally, he came upstairs one day and said he guessed they'd get out the Bazar next week. It was suggested to him that the materials were not ready. "Well," said he, "I've observed that when a man is going to jump overboard, there's no use standing thinking about it." A chief question was how to make its appearance distinctive from that of the Weekly. Fletcher, to the surprise of his associates, would have no advertising on the last page, and they wondered what he would do with it. Taking a hint from the popularity of the "Editor's Drawer" in the Monthly, he filled it with humorous cuts and squibs, and this gave it no little of its immediate success. This latest enterprise of the house, under the editorship of Miss Mary L. Booth, has circulated as many as 70,000 copies.

It was soon after, in 1869, that the brotherhood was broken, by the death of James. This brought about the first change in the partnership, and "the boys," already men of middle age, came into the firm. The death of James especially affected Wesley, and he followed in less than a year. John came less and less to the house, but Fletcher was still its main-spring. The death of John, in 1875, made Fletcher very lonely, and he began to "leave it to the boys." His death, a few months since, finished the life-record of the Harper Brothers.

James Harper, "the Mayor," the senior of the brothers, and always known to them in the family nomenclature as "the Boss," was a marked man even among the brothers. Tall, stout of frame, robust, he towered head and shoulders above most men about him, and his high color showed the flush of health. Standing, as was his usual custom, spectacles pushed up from his nose, his hair brushed severely back from his brow, his mouth firm-set though kindly, he looked down upon one with a peculiar gravity, which melted and lightened as some good joke from another or his own ever-ready play of humor relaxed his features into sympathy with the twinkling blue eyes. He had the bearing "of an Irish dean." The first characteristic after acquaintance was this overflowing, appreciative humor, sadly incorrigible at times,—for the Mayor never could resist a joke,—but under it the qualities of the man were always evident. It was he always who represented the house at the old trade sales, and every one on the floor began to be ready to laugh the moment he appeared on the stand. His humor was sound, wholesome, always telling—the surface play of a strong, loving nature. No man ever had greater capacities for friendship—a friendship so wide and catholic that it brought every employé whom he met on the stairs into a personal relation with him.

His habits of life and of work were in tone with these characteristics. From the day that he first came to New York he was a chief in the church, with a wholesome religion that never took the good out of life, and in this spirit he led the family devotions always kept up in his home, his own favorite readings being from the Psalms and from Paul's Epistle to the Romans. After his removal up town from Rose St., he left the old John St. church for St. Paul's, which he attended till his death. Always an early riser, he breakfasted at seven, and close upon eight was always to be found at the office, opening the letters. "While I was dressing," said a younger neighbor, "I used to see Mayor Harper coming out of his house to go down town, and felt ashamed of myself." After he had looked over the mail, he made his rounds as superintendent of the mechanical departments, the division of labor which naturally fell to his lot, visiting every department each day, calling every one by name, chaffing and cracking his jokes always with an appreciative cordiality that made every one who was doing his work—and none others stayed long—glad to see him. Little escaped his eye. After this routine, he was at the service of visitors, and doubtless it was at this time that he made the famous retort to a questioner, "who had been sitting long to very little purpose, and who finally said, 'Well, Mr. Harper, I can understand that your brother John takes care of the accounts, and your brother Joseph superintends the correspondence, and your brother Fletcher keeps the business moving, but I don't see what is left for you. What do you do?' 'Oh, they leave me an enormous work. I have more to do than all of them.' 'Indeed! That's very curious. What do you do?' 'Why, my dear sir, they leave me to entertain the bores!'" In early years his work was longer than the day, but later he was wise enough to limit himself, and at three o'clock he usually started off for the drive in the Park which was his favorite recreation.

James Harper was the only one of the brothers who had a public life apart from the relations of their business—which was itself, it should be added, of public relation. In 1844 he was elected Mayor of New York on the "American" ticket, and served with great satisfaction. He never would take any other office, though repeatedly urged to go to Congress; he preferred, as he said, to stick to a business that he understood. While in office, he got to know nearly every public servant by name, down to the policeman, and here was a new field for his incorrigible humor. One day, as he was walking down town with a pompous and self-satisfied member of the Board of Aldermen, they passed an assembly room, where a meeting was in progress from which disturbance was feared. The Alderman proposed to go over and quell the latent riot. "All right," said the Mayor, "you go over and tell them who you are, and I'll go down to the Hall and send a posse up to help you." Pomposity went over, and nearly succeeded in provoking a riot; the mayor forgot his promise long enough to give the Alderman a chance, and then sent up a squad of policemen to rescue him. All the policemen, in turn, knew him as "the Mayor" for many years, and another story is told of his pranks with one of them. He was driving in the Park, rather faster than regulation time, and a policeman held up a hand in warning. "The Mayor" stopped his carriage, gravely beckoned to the man, put his hand in his pocket, as if to reward him for his fidelity to duty, took from it a peppermint, such as he always carried for the benefit of the children, passed it to him with the utmost gravity, and drove on. A later story is of a visit to his brother John. He called one day while the family were at table, and a new servant asked what name she should give. Here was an opportunity, and he told her "Col. Jones, of Nebraska." The name was taken downstairs, and a few minutes after it dawned upon the family that no one knew a Col. Jones, of Nebraska, and that it was probably a sneak-thief in full possession upstairs. One of the boys rushed off for a policeman, and the others upstairs in hot pursuit, as a glance through the parlor door disclosed no visitor there. The servant who had let the Mayor in went through the parlors and discovered "Col. Jones" taking down a book from the library. "Well, Mary," began the Mayor, with his usnal pleasantry and his usual designation, when Mary gave a shriek, which brought the household rushing downstairs, and fell in a dead faint on the floor. In came the sedate John, and surveyed the scene with severe dignity. "Col. Jones! of Nebraska!" said he, pointing to the prostrate form, "here is your work!" "I didn't do it, John," said the incorrigible, "she fainted herself!" Meantime, one of the boys appeared at the door, with two policemen and a couple of reporters who had happened to be at the station. Here was a dilemma; but one of the policemen was an appointee of the Mayor, and took in the situation at once. "It's only one of the Mayor's jokes," he said, and so the tragedy ended. The comedy, however, enjoyed a wide circulation. Henry Clapp, the Bohemian, used to delight in telling a story wherein, for once, the Mayor had the worst of it. They were passing the Tombs in a Fourth Avenue car, when Mr. Harper beckoned the conductor and, pointing to Clapp, said: "My friend here, from the country, would like to know who lives in this building?" The conductor was a little annoyed and turned away, but the Mayor insisted and repeated his question. "I don't know who lives there now, Mr. Mayor," was the retort, "but I know who ought to!"

James Harper was a man of large toleration as well as sympathy, both in politics (in which he was a Whig) and in religion. "Don't try to drive men too roughly," he used to say; "my dear sir, it is so much easier to draw than to push." He never liked to speak ill of men. "We must not be too hard," he was fond of saying; "it is so difficult to know all the circumstances. If you should insist, for instance, that the use of tobacco is a sin, dear me! dear me!" His conscientiousness, not least in his business, was very strong: his first question of a book, it is said, was always: "Is this a proper book to do?" His charities were wide, and "intelligent and effective." His private life, indeed, was throughout consistently lovely.

"To the last day of his conscious life James Harper was as erect of figure and as buoyant of spirit as a boy. His interest in public affairs. which was that of a sagacious spectator, was unabated. He was one of the best known and highly honored citizens of the city, whose marvellous growth had continued with that of his own fortunes, but his life never lost its early simplicity and regularity. For some time his family had observed that, in the daily religious service at home, he no longer prayed to be delivered from sudden death, and upon being asked why, answered, pleasantly, 'The Lord knows best.' On Thursday, the 25th of March, 1869, he came to the office in his usual health. For the last time his cheerful face and stalwart form were seen in all the rooms as he moved rapidly about. The brother Wesley, the best loved of all, was confined by illness at his home, and the three others went together to visit him. Returning to his own home, James Harper, at the desire of his brothers, stopped at a photographer's to have his picture taken. After dinner, accompanied by his daughter, he drove to the Park. A brother publisher in the city, upon horseback, passed him near the Central Park, and remarked to his daughter, who was riding with him, 'How well Mr. Harper looks!' Soon afterward, the pole of the carriage suddenly broke, and the horses, although docile and well trained, were frightened and ran. At once they were beyond the control even of Mr. Harper's strong hand, and he and his daughter were presently thrown violently to the pavement. He spoke but once—to ask, 'Is Julia killed?' She happily escaped serious injury, and was carried home. Her father was taken insensible to St. Luke's Hospital, where, without regaining consciousness, he died on the next Saturday evening, at a quarter past seven, surrounded by his family, excepting his wife, who had been long an invalid." Mr. James Harper had been married twice, and left behind him two sons, Philip J. A. and Jas. Thorne Harper.

John Harper, always called "the Colonel," —nobody knows why,—was in strong contrast with the brother most closely associated with him. His was a massive, close-set head, firm upon a sturdy, solid figure, and every line told the dignity, firmness, and almost dogged persistence of the man. He looked "like the typical Bank president." But with all his dignity and reticence, he was kindly, just, appreciative. His integrity impressed every one. He never lost faith, even in the darkest days of the war, and he had content in his work. He is described as an earnest, tolerant Christian, desirous especially that his household servants should have full benefit of their diverse faiths; a model father in a model home; a wise counsellor and friend. Starting, like James, with simple habits, he maintained most of them throughout. He was always at the store before nine, and rarely left the old standing desk, which he took with him in the several removals, until his leaving hour of three. The financial management of the business was his peculiar care, including all purchases, and his knowledge, shrewdness, and business ability in this latter field gave the house one of its chief advantages. The estimates on a new book or other enterprises came from him, and it was he usually who designated styles of type and page for printing. He had extraordinary powers of reckoning, always after a fashion of his own. His early training at case and as a proof-reader made him an admirable typographical critic, and while he lived no title-page went out except with his approval. He made many corrections,—always, it is said, improvements. He had excellent judgment as to publishing, and when he decided, no other reader was considered necessary. Even in his later days, an important book would be sent to him at his house, and his decision would be ready the next morning. He rarely visited any part of the establishment beyond the counting-room, even in the new building of his own planning, excepting the press and engine rooms, to which his love of machinery frequently attracted him. Parallel to this delight was his liking for a good horse. He was a famous driver, quiet with the reins, and always drove horses that passed almost everybody on the road before they had found it out. This was his weakness, the weakness of a man of strength. One story was told of him which did not seem consistent with his straightforwardness, and it proves apocryphal. This was of his buying a horse for $3500 and paying for it in two checks, so that the other brothers should not persecute him for his weakness, as James, doubtless, was wont to do. The simple facts were that the horse had two half-owners. The Colonel's love of the road caused him several accidents, but none of them were serious.

A pleasant story is told of the first relations of Mr. Curtis with the house. He came in, an elegant youth, with the MS. of his "Nile Notes," and found John standing at his desk. The Colonel told the young aspirant that they had just published a book on the Nile. "Then I suppose you would not care for my manuscript!" "Not so fast, not so fast, my young friend," said John, "we never ought to turn a young author away without giving his book a fair hearing." And he added—Mr. Curtis himself tells this—"'This manuscript may be the finest book that was ever written, and' (with a sly look at the author) 'perhaps you and I think so; but you must remember that to a merchant the commodity in which he deals is always merchandise.'" "Had every author been as wisely instructed," adds the now experienced editor, "the calamities of authors, so far as they spring from relations with publishers, would have been signally diminished."

The death of two of his brothers told upon John Harper, and in 1872 he had a paralytic stroke. He had previously suffered from rheumatism, and in 1846 made his one trip across sea to recuperate from it. After the stroke, he feared some diminution of his mental powers, and with singular self-control directed that he should not again be consulted in the management of the business. He died, after much patient suffering, April 22d, 1875, at his home on Fifth Avenue, leaving in the house two sons, John W., his successor in the financial responsibilities, and Joseph Abner Harper.

Joseph Wesley Harper, the third brother, known as "the Captain," because he was a captain of artillery in early life, was always "the best beloved." He was slight and delicate in appearance, light of complexion, of high, intellectual forehead, winning in his ways, his face, and his speech. He had the look of the scholar. There was in him also that femininity which, conjoined with manliness, makes the highest type of man. And these feminine qualities, tenderness, delicacy, affection, included also the absolute bravery, the entire disregard of fear, found in brave women. Behind his quietness there was a determination "that made his 'yes' and 'no' mean as much as that of any man who ever lived." He was gracious, but he could be also indignant against abuse or wrong. As foreman for many years of the composing-room, he showed to the full this reserve power, governing as a wise mother governs, without show of force. This frail man, who never thought of carrying a pistol, could put down the greatest bully by sheer moral strength, and they tell at the house how he cowed one man of the sort who attempted to bully until he slunk away under the raising of Wesley's finger. He was the scholar among the brothers, and his early experience as proof-reader gave him the habit of going up into the composing-room and reading from the imposing-stone. He became a well-read man, and acquired considerable knowledge of Latin and Greek. These literary tastes made him naturally the correspondent of the house, and its representative in the relations with authors. "For years he was noted as the best correspondent in the trade. Every letter written by him said just what it was meant to say, and everything was so clearly expressed that I believe there never was a question as to anything involved in any letter from him." How the authors grew to love him! How everybody loved him—down to the poor apple-woman who shed tears on his coffin. When the great fire came, his domestic servants got together and sent some one to tell him that they would rather serve him for nothing than go. "I stood everything very well up to that time," he said, "but that broke me down."

He lived quietly in Brooklyn, and often walked on a Sunday with his son to the old homestead, six miles distant, where Fletcher met him from New York, to spend part of the day with their father. No more tender tribute has been paid over a grave than that of the "Easy Chair" to Wesley Harper, who "in very great prosperity kept not only the true heart of a child, but the humble heart that owned no inferior." Long a sufferer, he passed quietly away, soon after his brother James, on the 14th of February, 1870. His representative in the house is Mr. Joseph W. Harper, Jr.

Fletcher Harper, "the Major," was of still another type. He was of an open, strong face, of florid complexion, with large and yet keen eyes, well built, always driving. Everything about the man "meant business." He was born a commander, and his truer name would have been "the General." He "kept things moving," and was "the steam-engine of the house." It was difficult, after the other brothers had gone and he sat among the second generation, to realize that he did not belong there. He did not seem to grow old. His first position in the house was in charge of the bindery. By nature a journalist, the care of the periodicals naturally fell to his share, and he was also a general manager, especially when something needed to be pushed. He was a capital judge of men, and keen in testing them. He had a strong instinct of what was best to do, and never hesitated to take the responsibility. If he made a mistake, he never stopped to lament over it; if any of his associates or subordinates made a mistake, he never flung it in their teeth. His decisions were decisive, and he could rarely be argued out of them. "Now if you talk metaphysics, I can't follow you," was his common reply to more argumentative heads that opposed logic to his instinct. He was not a conservative. "Don't follow precedent," he once said to one of the editors, "do what seems best to-day, and never mind yesterday." He never backed out. When the rioters threatened the Harper building, it was he who took command, intrenched the building, and defied the mob. At first they put up the shutters. "Take them down," shouted Fletcher when he reached the store, and in a little while he had the entrance barricaded with piles of paper from the stock-room and a strong force of the house ready for the mob with a full supply of ammunition. Like most men of this intense temperament, Fletcher felt the need of frequent rests. His favorite outing was a trip to Europe, better by sail than by steam; he would get out his rugs on deck and lie in the sun perfectly happy. He could do nothing as vigorously as he could do anything else. And they could not get him home until he was ready for work again. Fletcher Harper, even more than his brothers, was a man who would have succeeded anywhere and under any circumstances.

Two years ago, when he was left alone, it seemed as though he was good for another generation of work. But he, too, felt very lonely. His relations with Wesley were peculiarly strong and touching, the love of David for Jonathan. And when the last of the brothers was called, he seemed to feel his own end approaching. The human machine wore out; there was a complication of diseases, culminating in gastric fever. His will kept him long alive, while a very sick man. On the morning of the 29th of May, 1877, with his family about him, he put his arm under his head, as was his wont, and fell asleep. He lived to celebrate a golden wedding, and to see grandchildren and great-grandchildren about him; and in the house his line is represented by the two sons of his eldest son, Joseph, and by Mr. Fletcher Harper, Jr.

We have purposely spoken rather of the brothers than of the house, but it is to be regretted that the records are so sparse of their early intercourse with the trade. They survived most of their contemporaries, and in the early days trade records are few. But they have left a great monument of their own building. They sleep together in Greenwood,—"the cheery James, the indomitable John, the gracious Wesley," the vigorous Fletcher,—but in every home in the land their work keeps alive their name, and in the annals of our country there can be found no career more representative than that of the Harper Brothers.

ANNUAL REFERENCE LIST.

ANNUAL REFERENCE LIST

OF BOOKS RECORDED IN THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY FROM JULY 1, 1876, TO JUNE 30, 1877, WITH ADDITIONAL TITLES, CORRECTIONS, CHANGES OF PRICE AND PUBLISHER, ETC.

In this list the principal entry, giving price and publisher, is made under author, or, in the case of anonymous works, under the first word not an article of the title proper, or the popular title.

Special references to the principal entry are generally made from first word of title, or catch-word, and from subject. The references to Law, Medical, and Music Books have, however, been made, for practical trade purposes, under the collective headings "Law Books," "Medicine," "Music Books."

The figure in ( ) refers to the number of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY in which, under the word preceding the parenthesis, the original title record will be found in full, and in which also is given (see "Order List") the full name and address of the publisher.

The prices are generally for cloth bindings, unless otherwise indicated.

THE

AMERICAN EDUCATIONAL CATALOGUE FOR 1877.

☞ NOTICE.—In this catalogue, books on which the publisher makes only a wholesale price are marked with a dagger (†), preceding the abbreviation of the publisher; publishers' retail prices are similarly designated with an asterisk (*). Where the book is exceptionally catalogued (at retail price by wholesale-list publisher, or at wholesale price by retail-list publisher), the word "retail" or "wholesale" is prefixed to the price in parenthesis. In comparing prices or ordering, a percentage ranging usually from twenty to twenty-five per cent, according to circumstances, should be added to prices quoted at wholesale, to cover handling, delivery, etc. Where inquiry has failed to elicit information from a publisher, the previous retail prices are given, with a query (?) affixed. Books forthcoming are marked with two asterisks ().

LIBRARIES.

THE CHEAPEST LIBRARY IN THE MARKET.

GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICE.

AN $18 LIBRARY FOR $14.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—As it is not the purpose of the Society to continue their one-hundred-volume libraries, the remaining sets of No. 2 Library, made up of one hundred volumes of popular publications, bound in HALF MOROCCO and put up in a NEAT WOODEN CASE, ready for use in the school-room, and known as the $18 Library, will be sold for FOURTEEN DOLLARS net each.

SELECT SUNDAY-SCHOOL LIBRARY.

This Library embraces 40 volumes, not in any other Library. A collection of more choice, interesting, and elegantly illustrated books was never offered to American Sunday-schools in the form of a Library. However poor schools may be, they should at least have this Library. Price $18.

BAPTIST FAMILY LIBRARY.

Twenty volumes, 16mo., Price $18. The following standard books make up this Library:

This collection embraces all the varieties of Christian Literature desirable in a Family Library. Four of the volumes are pre-eminently devotional in their character; three others unfold, in an attractive style, the fundamental doctrines of the gospel. Eight of the series are very able expositions and defences of our views of the ordinances. These all are standard works. The remaining five volumes are works of the highest merit, covering a vast and interesting range of truth. They are adapted both to please and instruct, and will be re-read many times with interest. The collection, taken together, has no superior.

Charming Illustrated Gift Books.

Heads and Tails. Stories and Studies of Pets. By Grace Greenwood. Square 16mo, illustrated, extra cloth, gilt edges..... 2 00

"It will especially delight those who, are fond of pets—many of whom are described with that inimitable humor, pathos, and tenderness for which Grace Greenwood, before most of her contemporaries, is noted."—Albany Evening Journal.

"The stories are simple, graceful, and pleasing, and the exquisite illustrations and vignettes add to the cheerful beauty of the work."—Boston Post.

"Grace Greenwood is gifted with a special knack at story-telling for young folks, and 'Heads and Tails,' with its stories of pet birds, cats, dogs, horses, etc., is a delightful book. The illustrations are the finest specimens of engraving, and everything about the book is very choice."—Chicago Advance.

"A perusal of this volume carries us back twenty-five years, recalling the time, when a boy of 12, we laughed and cried over the History of my Pets, by this same gifted author. For Heads and Tails is to grown-up people what the other work was to our childish fancy."—Christian at Work.

The Man in the Moon, and other People. By R. W. Raymond. Square 16mo, illustrated, extra cloth, gilt edges,.....2 00

"A delightful book for the young, abounding in queer fancies, pleasant thoughts, and grotesque images, with no mental alloy."—Minneapolis Tribune.

"Amid the multiplicity of good and entertaining books for boys and girls, it would be difficult to find one more to the taste of right-minded lovers of short stories, and at the same time pure and generous in all its teachings, than this."—Chicago Post and Mail.

"There is not a dull page in the whole book."—Albany Evening Journal.

"A collection of charming short tales, which display genuine knowledge of human nature and fine skill in its delineations."—New Haven Palladium.

"There is such a delightful vein of fancy, and such marked originality withal, that not only the child but the mature reader will find unvarying enjoyment in the perusal."—Christian at Work.

PUBLICATIONS OF

JESSE HANEY & CO.

The Black Board in the Sunday School.—By Frank Beard. The use of the Black Board as a means of instruction in the Sunday School, has become so extended as to make an urgent demand for a book of instruction, as will enable Superintendents and Teachers to draw creditably and acceptably. No one is better qualified to meet both those demands than Mr. Frank Beard. It is a book whose merits will be at once recognized by Sunday School people. Cloth, gold and black.

PRBLISHED BY

ADAMS, VICTOR & CO.

The Abominations of Modern Society. By Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, 290 pages 12mo. cloth..... 1 50

A most startling and effective presentation of the vices and follies of the great city. "It is a buoy," says the author, "swung over the rocks, and a beacon to warn the unwary." It has already had an immense sale, and is now a standard in the trade.

Get Thee Behind Me Satan! By Olive Logan. 298 pages, 12mo. Cloth 1 50

A Home Born Book of Home Truths. giving chapters on Girlhood, Bellehood, Wifehood, Motherhood, the Woman Single and the Woman Wedded, the Relations of Wife, Husband and Parent, and discussing in an eminently suggestive manner, some of the social problems, which are vexing homes, society and persons alike. The book has made a decided sensation, and is enjoying a very great currency.

Livingstone and his African Explorations. By S. O. Beeton, F. R. G. S, and Ronald Smith, of Bombay. 292 pages, 12mo. Cloth..... 1 50

With a full account of recent wonderful discoveries; sketches of all the Livingston Search Expeditions; chapters on the Slave Trade, &c., &c. With Portrait and new Map of the Great Water Shed Region of Equatorial Africa, &c. &c.

Reed Shaken with the Wind. A Love Story. By Emily Faithful. 12mo., 585 pages. Cloth..... 1 50

This story is a simple analysis of one of the most dangerous phases of female character—a phase alas! but too common in fashionable life on both sides of the Atlantic. A curious combination of intellectual power and instability of purpose portrayed in the heroine.

Memoirs of George the Fourth. Dercriptive of the most interesting scenes of his private and public life, and the events of his memorable reign; with characteristic sketches of all the celebrated men who were his friends and companions as a prince, and his ministers and counsellors as a monarch. Compiled from authentic sources, and documents in the King's Library in the British Museum, etc. By Robert Huish, author of "Memoirs of the Princess Charlotte," "Life of George III" etc. With two illustrations, 12mo. Cloth..... 1 50

They Met by Chance. A Society Novel. By Olive Logan (Mrs. Wirt Sikes). Author of "Get Thee Behind Me Satan." 12mo. Cloth..... 1 50

REDUCTION IN PRICES.

Having become the Manufacturer's Sole Agents in the United States for the celebrated

GARDNER PATENT PORTABLE BOOK-SHELVING,

we beg to call attention to the following descriptive Price List, and take this opportunity of informing the trade that we are now prepared to furnish this most convenient Portable Shelving at reduced prices. It is suitable for LIBRARIES, COLLEGES, SCHOOLS, TEACHERS, STUDENTS, LAWYERS, DOCTORS, CLERGYMEN, THE HOUSEHOLD, and for ALL who need Shelving.

This Shelving is very simple in construction, and can be taken apart and packed flat for removal very quickly, and be put up again in a few minutes without the aid of hammer or other tool. It will stand by itself, or can be placed against the wall without fastening of any kind, thus avoiding the driving of nails, and saving expense to those who are under the necessity of making frequent changes. It is by far the simplest Shelving that has been invented, and its cheapness, durability and elegance cannot fail to make it the most popular and valuable article of the kind ever offered.

For "taking to the country in Summer" they are just what is needed. One or two of them occupy very little space in a trunk.

PORTABLE BOOK-SHELVING

(GARDNER PATENT.)

INDISPENSABLE IN EVERY HOUSEHOLD

LIBRARY, OFFICE, STORE & SCHOOL.

THIS CUT SHOWS STYLE OF Nos. 1—7 INCLUSIVE.

Descriptive Price List of Nos. 1—7.

NAME.	WIDTH.	HEIGHT.	NO. OF SHELVES.	PRICE.
1	6½ inch.	12 inches.	Two.	$1 00
2	15 "	15 "	Two.	1 25
3	18 "	18 "	Three.	1 40
4	24 "	24 "	Three.	2 25

6	36 "	36 "	Four.	4 50
7	34 "	48 "	Five.	6 25

 Nos. 1—4 are peculiarly well adapted for hanging over the wash-stand, and form a convenience only to be appreciated by trial. Trimmed with tasteful fringe or embroidery upon the fronts of the shelves, they are made very ornamental; and the smaller sizes hung over the lounge or easy chair, for holding "books in use," are popular with those acquainted with their merits.

Each Rack is made of Solid Black Walnut, and can be taken apart, and packed flat for removal very quickly, and be put up in a few seconds without the aid of hammer or other tool.

9	36 "	76 "	Seven.	13 50
10	36 "	88 "	Eight.	15 50

As the Cut shows, each upright or end piece is in two parts, the lower part making a kind of stand. The upper part is connected with the stand by means of a hook, which firmly holds the two parts together. The above style makes a very handsome and substantial shelving for any household, library, school-room, store, or office.

They can be taken apart and packed flat for removal very quickly, and be put up in a few moments by an unskilled person, without the aid of hammer or other tool.

THE TAME TURTLE; or, Geordie McGregor's Trouble. By Lucy Ellen Guernsey, author of "Opposite Neighbors," "Ethel's Trials," "On the Mountain," &c. 16mo.

"Teaching a much-needed lesson—toleration by elders, for the amusements, occupations, and opinions of the young. When we are growing old and our 'house is left unto us desolate,' by the absence, marriage, or death of our children, how gladly would we hear again the romps and other noisy interruptions which perchance once called forth our impatient reproofs! The house is quiet enough now! Parents, let the children enjoy their youth now, that you may enjoy your age hereafter in pleasing retrospection that you 'offended' not 'one of these little ones!'"

Ninety Cents Each.

ALICE FENTON; or, Alone in the World. By Clara F. Guernsey. 16mo.

"An attractive book by the popular author of the 'Silver Cup.' It is designed to counteract the tendency of some young persons to substitute a sickly sentiment for practical Christianity."

BEN BOLAND'S GARDEN; or, Home Life. 16mo.

"A story that will be found deeply interesting to the more intelligent classes of juvenile and other readers. The writer has shown how the rich and poor may meet together with delight and profit to both, when influenced by the power of Christian love."

CHERRY, THE MISSIONARY; or, The Church in the Wilderness. 16mo.

"A touching story of a child, who, with her adopted parents, left New York for California in search of her father; she finds her father, who had long and vainly sought her, and continues to the end of her life a missionary of the cross."

FAITHFUL, BUT NOT FAMOUS. An Historical Tale. By the author of "Soldier Fritz," "Maggie's Message," &c. 16mo.

"Intended as an illustration of the struggles of Protestantism in France; a chapter of history too much neglected by old and young readers."

FORGIVENESS; or, The Story of Margaret Lisle. 16mo.

"Illustrating the reward of principle and the triumph of truth."

"A story illustrating the duty of forgiveness. It is written in a clear, simple style, and will interest young readers, while impressing its important lesson upon their hearts."

GRANDMA MERRITT'S STORIES. 16mo.

"A series of stories told by grandma, from her own memory, to her young friends—'The Lost Irish Boy,' 'The Indian Adventure,' 'The Bitter Spirit,' 'Tom, the Runaway,' 'Smiling Temptation,' and 'Sunshine in the Woodbine Arbor.'"

HELEN ARNOLD; or, The District School. 16mo.

"'Sweet are the uses of adversity,' remarks an author who never had a chance, in consequence of his premature decease, of writing for 'The Union;' but Helen Arnold proves, as others are daily proving, the truth of his philosophy."

HELME LODGE; or, The Object of Life. 16mo.

"This is a beautifully-written, touching and impressive story, eminently evangelical in its sentiments, and overflowing with the unction of a spiritual and earnest piety."

JESSIE'S WORK; or, Faithfulness in Little Things. A Story for Girls. By Mary E. Shapley, author of "The Northcroft Lilies," "Little Molly," &c. 16mo.

"It is of great importance to prove to young people that it is their duty to do good, but it is equally necessary to show them how to do it. This is the object of this book, and the author has succeeded."

MISSIONARY ANECDOTES—The Isles of the Pacific, India and Burmah, China, North Africa, and Turkey; South Africa and Madagascar; North America and the West Indies. With twelve illustrations. 16mo.

NELLY; or, The Best Inheritance. By the author of "Irish Amy." 16mo.

"It is a delightful tale, which no girl can read without advantage."

ON THE MOUNTAIN; or, Lost and Found. By the author of "Irish Amy." 16mo.

"The story of Fanny Lilly's summer, spent at her grandmother's home in the country, and the change that was wrought in a wilful and deceitful girl, by patient and judicious training. Little Annie Mercer's adventures on the mountain is thrillingly told, and is deeply interesting."

SWEPT AND GARNISHED; or, Fruits Meet for Repentance. 16mo.

"This is a graphic representation of Swiss country life."

THE BROKEN REIN. 16mo.

"Exhibits the fearful penalty of carelessness in the discharge of duty."

THE FAIRCHILDS; or, Do What You Can. By Lucy Ellen Guernsey. 16mo.

"The author of 'Irish Amy' introduces her readers in this book to the 'Fairchild Family,' in whose joys and sorrows, hopes and disappointments, they will become deeply interested."

THE LIGHT OF THE FORGE; or, Counsels Drawn from the Sick Bed of E. M. 16mo.

"E. M. was the eldest daughter of the parish blacksmith, and the grace of God was magnified in her faith and love and usefulness. The book contains precious lessons for the young Christian."

THE LITTLE HOUSE IN THE HOLLOW. By the author of "Shenac's Work at Home." 16mo.

"The power of the Holy Scriptures in the conversion of little children is strikingly portrayed in this book."

THE ORPHANS OF GLEN ELDER. 16mo.

"This is a charming volume, and worthy a place in any Sunday-school library or home where children are."

THE SUNBEAM STORIES. 16mo.

"Ten stories especially written for Sunday-schools, but so simple and genial is the instruction that they contain, that every one will be delighted to read them."

THE WORKING BOY'S SUNDAY IMPROVED. 16mo.

WAITING FOR THE MORNING. 16mo.

"This is a story of labor and love, and quiet resignation, waiting for the morning which at last came, bringing with it that joy and peace that 'fadeth not away.'"

YOUNG EAGLE; or, Forest Fortunes. 16mo.

"A descriptive story of pioneer and Indian life on our Western frontier, soon after the Revolutionary War; full of incident, very interesting and instructive."

One Dollar Each.

CHRISTMAS WITH THE GIRLS. 16mo.

"Any one that has read 'Christmas with the Boys' will want to read this attractive book."

DOROTHY'S LADDER. By the author of "Burden Bearing: A Story about Jenny Ellis." 16mo.

"What the steps of 'Dorothy's Ladder' are we shall not tell; but we may say that they are such as little feet can climb, by the aid of that strength which is never denied to those who seek it."

HOME IN HUMBLE LIFE. 16mo.

"Proving that piety, industry and sobriety are the best capital on which any man can start in the business by which he is to earn his daily bread."

MABEL; or, The Bitter Root. A Tale of the Times of James the First. 16mo.

"Another story of the 'Staunton Corbet Series,' powerfully written, and showing what serious consequences may result from fostering the bitter root of envy. A story illustrative of the times of James the First of England."

NELLY WEST FROM TEN TO TWENTY. By the author of "Gertrude Terry," "The Whole Armor," &c. 16mo.

"One of the latest of the American Sunday-School Union's excellent story-books for girls. It is in the form of a diary, and is a very natural, easy account of the developments of a young girl's character, and its growth in religion through a life-period of trial."—Evening Bulletin.

RUBY ADAMS; or, A Vocation Wanted. 16mo.

"Ruby Adams and her home life will interest larger girls, and inculcate the lesson that faithful, earnest working in the path of duty will bring contentment and happiness."

SANDY CAMERON; or, The Way One Looks at It. By the author of "Ruth Allerton," "Christmas with the Boys," "Barley Loaves," Half a Dozen Boys," "Half a Dozen Girls," &c. 16mo.

"A good book by one of our best writers. It is indeed 'the way one looks at it' which influences so largely the misery or happiness of life. We would not go so far as to assert, with the author of the axiom quoted under the preceding article, of saying that 'there is nothing, either good or bad, but thinking makes it so;' but certainly thinking has a great deal to do with it."

THE BOOK OF ONE HUNDRED AND NINETY STORIES AND PIECES. Compiled by the author of "Martha's Gift," &c. With 12 full page illustrations. 16mo.

"Here is variety for the little people! When the children decide upon their favorite 'stories' or 'pieces,' they can find them again by means of the alphabetical list of titles in front of the book. Much pains have been taken to make the collection not only 'good,' but lively and interesting."

THE CATACOMBS OF ROME. 16mo.

"Giving the most important and interesting facts touching the subterranean cemeteries of the ancient city of Rome, very fully illustrated."

THE MINISTER'S WIFE; or, Life in a Country Parish. By Mrs. A. K. Dunning, author of "Ralph Waring's Money," &c. 16mo.

"An unaffected story, describing the life of a minister's wife, from the time when she was 'changed from Mary Grey, a well-meaning girl, who was very prone to make mistakes, into Mrs. Darcy, a minister's wife.' The quiet pleasures of the pastor's home are contrasted with its duties, conflicts and responsibilities. There is an artless portrayal of trials and failures; of discouragements and encouragements; of sorrows, struggles and temptations; and we are taught, quietly and without preaching, how the evil can be overcome and lasting happiness be attained at last."—Christian Intelligencer.

"A natural, affecting and instructive story."—The Methodist.

THE RANDOLPH CHILDREN. With illustrations. 16mo.

"A story teaching that our heavenly Father has a special work for each of us to do. Our young friends cannot fail to be interested in reading of the childhood of the orphans; their joys and sorrows, and the efforts made by them to obey their mother's last injunction, 'to find out what you were made for,' and 'to grow more like the dear Saviour.'"

THE SILVER RIFLE. A Story of the Saranac Lakes. By C. F. Guernsey. 16mo.

"This story, which will prove deeply interesting to boys, shows that covetousness leads to theft, and that sin, in old or young, brings the sure wages of pain and shame when it is finished."

THE VOYAGE OF THE WHITE FALCON. 16mo.

"One of the most grateful Sunday-school stories we have read for some time—suitable for the Sunday-school and agreeable in the family."

THE WORD OF LIFE. Held forth to counsel Parents, guide Children, help the Christian, &c. 16mo.

WHAT CHANGED GUY DENNIS; or, Life at School and at Home. 16mo.

"A book for larger boys, telling of the home and school life of Guy Dennis; of the good influence he exerted over his companions; and how he was enabled to resist many temptations and persevere in his Christian course."

WHO WON THE PRIZE? or, Helen Tracy. 16mo.

"Teaching an important lesson—that the spirit of competition should always be regulated by the spirit of love—that rivalry does not justify jealousy or ill-will."

TWO HUNDRED YEARS AGO; or, Life in New Sweden. By the author of "Over the Hedge," "Rose Elliott's Wish," &c., &c. 16mo.

"A history of the Swedish settlement on the Delaware, ending with Penn's proprietorship. Giving the Swedish views of events, and observations on the modes of living in the new country, under the Swedes, Dutch and English, as illustrated in the story of one of the families of the early settlers."

One Dollar and Ten Cents Each.

A HAPPY WORLD; or, Good, Better, Best. 16mo.

BRUEY: a Little Worker for Christ. 16mo.

"Lovely exceedingly is the character of this dear little girl!—and so graphically is the portrait drawn that we feel as if we had lost a sweet friend and pet, when she is called up higher. Such books touch many hearts and should produce many good deeds."

CHILD LIFE IN EGYPT. 16mo.

"Teachers will find this volume full of suggestions and encouragements to aid them in their work and labor of love."

DEL DUNSTAN'S CHILDHOOD. By the author of "Waiting for the Morning," "Ruby Adams," &c., &c. 16mo.

"This story is a remarkably fresh and attractive description of child life in a rural village.—From Hearth and Home.

DR. KENDALL'S CHILDREN AND THEIR COUSINS. 16mo.

"An interesting and well-written story for girls, teaching that it is not necessary to seek a foreign field to exercise a missionary spirit and be the means of doing much good."

ELEANOR. An Autobiography. 16mo.

"We can assure our friends that we have provided a 'rich treat' for them in this admirably-written and instructive biography."

GREAT POSSESSIONS. By the author of "Poke and her Sisters." 16mo.

"A most encouraging volume to those who are anxious to bring the principles of Christianity to bear upon an irreligious neighborhood; yet, this is no dry theological exposition, but a graphic gallery of natural portraits—of real men, women and children.

IRISH AMY; or, The Child on the Street and on the Farm. 16mo.

"This is a most interesting and touching narrative."

One Dollar and Ten Cent Books—Cont'd.

IT ISN'T RIGHT; or, Frank Johnson's Reasons. 16mo.

"A good book for the older boys, showing the benefit of never swerving from the right."

JENNY AND THE INSECTS. 16mo.

"Interesting and accurate description of insects and their habits."

POKE AND HER SISTERS; or, A Peep at the Clyde Family. 16mo.

"A picture of domestic life, showing that true pleasure and happiness are to be found in the path of duty, though it involve self-denial rather than admit of the frivolities of gayety and fashion. A book for the larger girls."

RAGGED HOMES AND HOW TO MEND THEM. 16mo.

RUTH ALLERTON, THE MISSIONARY'S DAUGHTER. 16mo.

"A well-written and interesting story of the life of a missionary's daughter whose early days were spent in Africa, and who at the age of nine years was brought to this country by her father and placed under the care of a loving aunt; the story of her home and school life, with her trials and temptations, is admirably told."

THE SILVER CUP. By Clara F. Guernsey. 16mo.

"An impressive narrative, inculcating most important principles, and calculated to interest all classes of readers."

THE STORY OF A DIAMOND: Illustrative of Egyptian Manners and Customs. 16mo.

"In the form of a tale, she brings before us the various classes of Egyptian society—Copts, Musselmans, Syrians and Europeans. To young people it must have a peculiar interest."

THE WORKINGMAN AND HIS FRIENDS; or, The Story of Archie Tyndal and James Collins. 16mo.

THERESA'S JOURNAL. A charming story, translated from the French of Madame E. De Pressense. 16mo.

"It is a simple, unaffected, charming story of a young French orphan girl, who, after the death of her mother, lived with two maiden aunts, one of whom was quick, sharp tempered and demonstrative; the other meek and retiring. Theresa, the orphan girl, tells her story in the form of a journal, commencing at her fifteenth birthday, and continued from day to day."

TRIALS AND TRIUMPHS. 16mo.

TRUTH AND GRACE; or, The Works of Mary Jane Graham. With a Memoir and Portrait. 16mo.

WASHINGTON, GEORGE, THE LIFE OF. 16mo.

"An original work designed to present the character of Washington in its religious aspects."

THE DAUGHTER AT HOME; or, The History of Helen Maurice. 16mo.

WINSIDE FARM; or, The Spensers. How a single family quietly revolutionized a whole neighborhood. 16mo.

One Dollar and Twenty-five Cents Each.

AFTERWARDS; or, Janet's True Friend. A book for the larger scholars. 16mo.

BARLEY LOAVES. By the author of "Ruth Allerton," "Christmas with the Boys," "Sandy Cameron," "Half a Dozen Boys," "Half a Dozen Girls," "A Package of Seeds, &c. 16mo.

"'Barley Loaves' is by the daughter of an eminent American writer, who filled a large space in the literary history of his day. All of this lady's books may be recommended for their excellent design, and for the sprightliness of their tone."

CHILDREN'S VICTORIES; or, Ossie and Maria. 16mo.

"This is the story of two children—twin brother and sister—who lost their mother quite early, and lived with a stepmother who was amiable but indolent, and took but little interest in their welfare. The children were warmly attached to each other, and their trials and struggles form the subject of this narrative, which is related in a style to interest young persons and do good."

DANIEL TRACEY'S STORE IN COVINGTON. 16mo.

"It is a story of the conquering effects of the Gospel over a perverse, hard nature, where ill weeds had been suffered to grow without check."

"An interesting and wholesome story of village life."

ELMIRA'S AMBITIONS; or, Miss Ross and her Career. By Clara F. Guernsey. 373 pp. 16mo.

"It is not often that books of the order to which this book belongs are as bright and interesting as that under notice."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

ETHEL'S TRIALS IN BECOMING A MISSIONARY. By Lucy Ellen Guernsey. 16mo.

"This book is dedicated to the 'larger girls' in our Sunday-schools and Bible-classes, and especially to those who have taken upon themselves the name and vows of the Christian disciple."

ISA GREAME'S WORLD. 16mo.

"A true story, a beautiful story, and a useful story; so says the New York Observer."

JESSIE BURTON; or, Danger in Delay. 16mo.

"This book presents a vivid illustration of the punishment which often attends the fault of procrastination."

NATURE'S SCHOOL; or, Lessons from the Garden and the Field. 16mo.

OPPOSITE NEIGHBORS; or, Two Lives and their End. 16mo.

"The advent of a really good work always gives us pleasure. We can commend the above as one of the best of its class. It points its moral with earnestness and fidelity."

OUT OF THE ORPHAN ASYLUM; or Sketches in a Country Parish. 16mo.

"This work is simply but expressively and forcibly written. It abounds with incident, a number of the conversations are surprisingly good, and the characters are clearly and cleverly delineated. The whole tone of the work is excellent."

PHIL DERRY, THE WESTERN BOY WHO BECAME A SUNDAY-SCHOOL MISSIONARY. 16mo.

"The story of Phil Derry is full of interest, showing how God had cared for him, and how we can all do good in our homes and to those that are around us. Phil, after much suffering and many trials, becomes that which he had long desired to be, a Sunday-school missionary, and we love to follow him in his work for Christ."

RALPH WARING'S MONEY. By Mrs. A. K. Dunning, author of "The Minister's Wife," &c. 16mo.

"A book of sterling merit, in which the choice is deliberately made by the chief subject, of the worst master, 'mammon,' instead of God. If ever any country needed a warning against the danger of the 'race for riches,' it is this country—as well as others."

RHODA'S EDUCATION; or, Too Much of a Good Thing. By Lucy Ellen Guernsey, author of "Irish Amy," "Comfort Allison," "The Tattler," "Twin Roses," &c. 16mo.

"An admirable exposition, by one of the best juvenile writers now living, of the dreadful effects of 'cramming.' If any human influence can open the minds and penetrate the hearts of parents and teachers, and induce them to mitigate the 'educational' tortures to which children are subjected, this capital book should effect this result."

SELECT STORIES TO PLEASE AND TO PROFIT. 16mo.

"A volume very carefully prepared, and containing some of the choicest stories for the young which are found in our language."

SHENAC'S WORK AT HOME. A Tale of Canadian Life. 16mo.

"One of the most interesting and touching stories, for old and young, that has been published for a long time."

STORY OF A CHINESE BOY IN CALIFORNIA. 16mo.

"A true story; the scenes in San Francisco, and the incidents remarkable and interesting in the life of a Chinese lad, rescued from the wicked life of his gambling countrymen, and trained for the Christian ministry."

THE OLD FLAG. 368 pages, 16mo. Beautifully illustrated.

"We know of no other volume prepared for the young which so clearly sets forth the foundations on which our Government rests, and upon which the noble fabric of the Republic has been reared."

THE CITY ARAB. 366 pages, 16mo.

"It breathes wholesome lessons of integrity and self-reliance."

"The story is very well told, with great truthfulness to human experience, and in fact the materials of it are said to have been drawn from real life. It illustrates the conservative and sanctifying power of the Gospel in a striking manner."

THE TATTLER; or, The History of Patty Steele. By the author of "Irish Amy," &c. 16mo.

"The evil against which it warns prevails everywhere. A book which can teach youth a wise use of the tongue is an unmixed blessing. The getting up of this volume is very attractive."

THE TROUBLESOME SECRET, AND WHAT IT COST. 16mo.

"A good book to give a school-girl, to show her the evil and the agony which sometimes result from one wrong step, if it is not at once retraced and repented of."

THE TWIN ROSES, AND HOW THEY WERE TRAINED. 16mo.

"A finely-written book, presenting a well-drawn contrast between a wise and an unwise training of children; and containing elements of intense interest to older as well as younger readers."

THE WAY MADE PLAIN. By the Rev. James H. Brooks, D.D., author of "How to be Saved," &c. 16mo.

"In the preface the author says: 'Those who carefully read the first thirteen verses of the tenth chapter of Romans, cannot fail to perceive the logical order and marvellous clearness with which the Holy Ghost there sets forth the Way of Life. It is the aim of this little book to follow that order, and in some feeble measure to reflect that clearness. Hence the Scriptures are closely followed at every step of the argument, because they alone can guide our feet in the paths of peace."

WASHINGTON AND '76. By Lucy Ellen and Clara F. Guernsey. 16mo. Profusely illustrated.

"A very graphic and interesting work; giving a personal idea of Washington rather than a mere history of the war."

One Dollar and Fifty Cents Each.

BOYS OF EAGLEWOOD; or, Life at School. By Clara F. Guernsey. 16mo.

"A delightful book for larger boys, giving a history of the school-life at Dr. Meadow's very pleasant academy at Eaglewood."

GRANDMOTHER BROWN'S SCHOOL-DAYS; or, Education as it was Seventy Years Since. By Lucy Ellen Guernsey. 16mo, illustrated.

"An aged grandmother relates to her grandchild the account of her experiences as a child, in the family, the school, at home and in a foreign land, with the rude and uneducated, with the cultivated and gay, with the kind and cruel, with the pious and the irreligious, and in all the subject of experience is seen to gain knowledge and to form character. The teaching and discipline of a hundred years ago is shown to be more rigid and harsh than that of the present times."—Episcopal Recorder.

OUR ONLY BROTHER. 16mo.

"The history of a family of orphan children, showing the good wrought by the influence of a kind and patient elder sister."

One Dollar and Fifty Cent Books—Continued.

SCRUB HOLLOW SUNDAY-SCHOOL. How it was started. 16mo.

"An excellent guide in starting and sustaining Sunday-schools, and happily combining amusement and profit."

THE HEIRESS OF McGREGOR; or, Living for Self. By Lucy Ellen Guernsey, author of "Irish Amy," &c. 16mo.

"A highly-interesting and instructive book, containing varied scenes, incidents, and diversities of character. We were especially interested in 'Marion,' the heiress, who thought every one 'misunderstood her,' but who finally entered upon a career of active usefulness in a proper spirit."

THE MALLORY GIRLS; or, The Wrong and the Right Way. By Clara F. Guernsey. 16mo, illustrated.

"A striking contrast between worth, goodness, and refinement and that worldliness now so common in every-day life, and showing, in a very clear and forcible manner, 'that the only safe ground against love of the world is love of the Father.'"

THREE GIRLS OF THE REVOLUTION. By the author of "The Randolph Children." 16mo.

"Giving a vivid and interesting sketch of the early Revolutionary War in New Jersey, as illustrated in the lives of three girls of that period, 'Dorcas, Polly, and Keren-happuch.'"

THY POOR BROTHER. By Mrs. Sewell, author of those popular ballads, "Mother's Last Words," "Our Father's Care." 16mo.

WILD AND TAME. A sly peep at four-footed animals, where they live and what they do. 16mo

AN ALPHABETICAL INDEX TO THE NEW TESTAMENT. Common version, suitable to any edition, and useful to Ministers, Teachers and Bible Readers. 25 cents, 40 cents and 50 cents.

"We have received from the American Sunday-School Union a copy of 'An Alphabetical Index to the New Testament,' prepared by S. A. A., who, we infer, is Dr. S. Austin Allibone. The well-deserved reputation of this gentleman is a sufficient guaranty that the work of indexing the New Testament has been thoroughly performed. While phraseological fullness has been preferred to verbal minuteness, the compilation is well calculated to render the teachings of the New Testament at once accessible to the inquirer."

CHRISTIE; or. The Way Home. 2 volumes, $2 50; 2 volumes bound in one, $2 25. 16mo.

"This book will be made welcome in very many families, and wherever it goes it must do good."

NEW AND BEAUTIFUL BIBLE MAPS. A new series of BIBLE MAPS prepared under the direction and supervision of the Rev. Dr. Blaikie, author of "Bible History," and editor of "The Land and the Book," and published by T. Nelson & Sons, have been received by the American Sunday-School Union, who have the exclusive agency for the sale in the United States.

Among the distinguished features of the Maps, may be mentioned:

1. The accuracy, the distinct lettering and the unsurpassed coloring.

2. The surface of the country represented on the map (two hundred miles square) is very conspicuously divided into sections of fifty miles each, and again subdivided into squares of ten miles each.

3. Besides the usual degrees of latitude and longitude, the distance of each place east and south of London is so marked that the student with a single glance of the eye can determine it.

In order to make the square complete, the northern portion, comprehending the mountains of Lebanon, is detached and represented by itself.

With access to this Map, there can be no apology for ignorance respecting the relative distances of places mentioned in the Bible.

The New Music Book, just Published.

CALVARY SONGS, A NEW HYMN AND TUNE-BOOK, for the Family and the Sunday-school. Prepared by Rev. Charles S. Robinson, D.D., and Theodore E. Perkins, and published by the American Sunday-School Union. Copyright by American Sunday-School Union, 1875.

Sunday-school workers have for several years felt the importance of having a new Singing-Book, which would contain so large a numbers of the most valuable Hymns and Tunes for Sunday-schools, that there would be no necessity for changing books every year. Among the advantages of such a work are: (1) large saving of expense; (2) greater familiarity with the words and tunes; (3) increased interest in this part of the service; (4) a more devout spirit of praise and worship in the Sunday-school.

The American Sunday-School Union has therefore availed itself of the services of two gentlemen of acknowledged ability and experience to prepare this collection of hymns and music. Dr. Robinson is widely known as the compiler of "Songs for the Sanctuary," one of the most popular books for church service ever issued, and as one of the most faithful workers in behalf of the Sunday-school cause over the whole country. Mr. Theodore E. Perkins, his worthy associate, is known by his "Songs of Salvation," and "Songs of To-Day," wherever good music is seen or sung.

PLAN OF PREPARATION.

The purpose has been this—to secure as many of the familiar and popular pieces of all the best authors as was consistent with a fair number of fresh tunes and hymns of real worth—the old and the new together. Among those well-known may be mentioned the following:

Jesus of Nazareth—A Starless Crown, . T. E. PERKINS.
Hold the Fort—Jesus Loves Even Me, . P. P. BLISS.
Ninety and Nine—Yet There is Room, . I. D. SANKEY.
I Need Thee—Shout for Joy, . . W. F. SHERWIN.
How Can I Keep from Singing—Only One Way to the Cross, ... S. J. VAIL.
What a Friend we have in Jesus—Just Across the River, ... KARL REDEN.
The Valley of Blessing—I am Trusting, Lord, ... W. G. FISCHER.
Jesus Saves Me Now—The Gates Ajar, . GEO. S. WEEKS.
The Heavenly Visitor—The Penitent, . . A. HULL.
The Cross! The Wondrous Cross! REV. J. H. STOCKTON.
Pass Me Not, ... J. W. SUFFERN.
The Man of Sorrows, ... REV. Dr. PIERSON.
Let the Saviour In—Blessed is He that Cometh, ... H. MILLARD.
It is Better Farther on—Resting in Jesus, W. W. BENTLEY.
Jesus by the Sea—Oh! We are Volunteers, G. F. ROOT.
I am Coming, Lord, . . . REV. L. HARTSOUGH.
Jesus Loves—Nearer the Cross, . MRS. J. F. KNAPP.
Safe Within the Vail—Over the River, . J. M. EVANS.
The Other Side—While the Days are Going by, ... J. E. GOULD.
Wheat and Tares—Over the Sea, . REV. H. KINGSBURY.

Very many new and old pieces by the same and other authors are to be added to these in its enumeration, for the book consists of 168 pages, including indexes of subjects and first lines. Indeed, it will be found to contain nearly all the popular music sung by such welcome workers in revival meetings as Mr. Sankey, Mr. Weeks, and Mr. Bliss.

SIZE, FORM AND PRICE.

This new book is of the ordinary square shape. The type is fresh, large and clear; the paper fine, the cover beautifully engraved. Although larger than those in the market, it will be offered on the same general terms, viz: 35 cents per copy; $30 00 per 100 copies.

CALVARY SONGS.

BY C. S. ROBINSON AND T. E. PERKINS.

"A book of 168 pages, printed and bound in good style. The music is fresh and good; and there is a better collection than usual of favorite hymns without the music. One peculiarity, which we never saw in any other book, and which is a decided advantage, is that the first line of each hymn is set to music in some familiar tune. This is a great relief to the unprofessional, as how to start the tune is a great trouble with many of us."—Western Recorder, Louisville, Ky., Aug. 3, 1876.

"The American Sunday-School Union has done the Sabbath-school interest a good service in securing the compilation of this admirable collection. It is prepared by two master workmen, and is adapted to meet the wants of schools in every part of the land. It contains nearly all the popular music sung now in revival meetings, together with such an admixture of new hymns and tunes as the cultivated taste of its compilers has approved. It is adapted for permanent use, and we trust will have a share in arresting the tendency to frequent change in Sunday-school music, which has been so great a nuisance and worry hitherto. We wish the new candidate a wide career of usefulness."—New York Evangelist.

"The American Sunday-School Union have issued an admirable collection of spiritual songs adapted for use in Sunday and public schools, and also for social and revival meetings. It is entitled Calvary Songs, and has been conjointly prepared by Rev. C. S. Robinson, D.D., and Theodore E. Perkins. The music is of a high order, and the hymns are at once poetical and devotional."—Christian Intelligencer.

"This new collection of hymns and tunes has evidently been made with scrupulous care, and with an eye to meeting the wants of Sunday-schools and families. New songs and old favorites are wisely brought together, and, in some instances, familiar tunes have been given fresh words, to the gain of the singers."—St. Nicholas Magazine.

THE VILLAGE AND FAMILY LIBRARY.

Useful and Popular Library for General Circulation.

This series, with the exception of a few reprints, is ORIGINAL, from the pens of authors of ability in their respective departments in literature and science; POPULAR in style; so that, instead of being limited to one class of the community, they may be acceptable generally; SCRIPTURAL, in the principles in which they are written; PORTABLE, that they may serve as "hand-books" abroad and at home. Each volume contains 192 pages, in a good, bold type, and occasionally ILLUSTRATED WITH ENGRAVINGS. They are done up in sets of 76 volumes, uniformly bound in gilt muslin backs, at $25 00 per set.

SWEDENBORG'S THEOLOGICAL WORKS.

Uniform Octavo Edition.

PUBLISHED BY THE

American Swedenborg Printing and Publishing Society,

20 COOPER UNION, NEW YORK.

This edition contains all the theological works which Swedenborg himself published.

The whole set, when delivered at one time, will be sold for $25.

All sales strictly for cash. A liberal discount to the trade.

Arcana Coelestia: the Heavenly Arcana contained in the Holy Scriptures or Word of the Lord, unfolded; together with Wonderful Things seen and heard in the World of Spirits and in the Heaven of Angels. Ten vols. Price, $1.50 per vol.

This work is an exposition of the internal or spiritual sense, according to the law of correspondences, of the books of Genesis and Exodus. It unfolds the spiritual significance of the creation and fall of man; of the deluge, and the saving of Noah's family in the ark; of the lives of the patriarchs and their children; of the captivity of the chosen people in Egypt, their delivery thence, their wandering in the wilderness, and the miracles performed in their behalf; of the ritual of the Jewish religion, its sacrifices and observances;—and, in general, traces the foreshadowing through both books of the incarnation and glorification of the Lord Jesus Christ. Many passages from other parts of the Word are also fully explained.

At the close of each chapter interesting relations of things heard and seen in the spiritual world are added, explaining the process of dying, the resurrection of man, and his entrance into eternal life; the nature and life of the soul, of heaven and heavenly joy, and of hell, its nature and its miseries; spheres in the other life; of the light and heat in which the angels live, and their paradisiacal scenery; of visions and dreams, including the prophetical ones recorded in the Word; of the Last Judgment; of memory in the other life; of the condition of the Mohammedans and heathen in the other world; of man's freedom; representations and correspondences; the Grand Man, or the whole angelic heaven, and the correspondence of the different societies therein with the different organs and senses of the human body; the origin and correspondence of diseases; of the spirits and inhabitants of the various planets, and of other earths in the starry heavens.

Apocalypse Revealed, wherein are disclosed the Arcana there foretold, which have heretofore remained concealed. Two vols.; $1.50 per vol.

This work unfolds the spiritual meaning of the Book of Revelation. It shows that by the "Seven Churches in Asia," to whom this prophecy is said to be addressed, are meant the different classes of Christians of the present day; that the Last Judgment is not an event which is to occur at some future time in the material world, but one which has already taken place in the world of spirits; and that the "New Jerusalem coming down like a bride out of heaven," symbolizes a New Dispensation of Truth now descending into the minds of men. Incidentally, also, it explains numerous passages from other parts of the Word. Instructive narratives of things seen in the spiritual world are also interspersed between the chapters.

Heaven and its Wonders, the World of Spirits, and Hell; from things heard and seen. (Commonly called "Heaven and Hell.") pp. 377. Price, $1.25.

This work unfolds the laws of the spiritual world, describes the condition of both good and evil spirits, and exhibits the general arrangement of the inhabitants of both heaven and hell, and the scenery by which they are surrounded. It treats, among other things, of the form of heaven, in general and in particular, of the innumerable societies of which the whole heaven consists, and of the correspondence between the things of heaven and those of earth; of the Sun of heaven, and the light and heat thence proceeding; of representative appearances in heaven, and of the changes of state experienced by the angels; of their garments and habitations, their language and writings, their innocence and wisdom, their government, worship, and state of peace; of the origin of the angelic heaven, and its conjunction with the human race by means of the Word; of the state of the heathen and young children, of the rich and poor, and of the wise and simple, in heaven; of the occupations of the angels; of heavenly joy and happiness; and of the immensity of heaven. It also treats of the World of Spirits, or first state of man after death, and the successive changes which he subsequently passes through; of the nature of Hell, and the true meaning of the "devil," "satan," "hell-fire," and the "gnashing of teeth;" of the appearance, situation, and plurality of the hells; and of the dreadful wickedness and direful arts of infernal spirits; —presenting altogether a rational and complete system of Pneumatology, and one in perfect harmony with the teachings of Holy Scripture.

Angelic Wisdom concerning the Divine Love and the Divine Wisdom. pp. 180. Price, $1.00.

This work contains the wisdom of the angels concerning the operation of the Divine Love and the Divine Wisdom in the creation of the universe, including man as the chief end of creation. It explains the trinal distinction which exists in all created things from the trinity in God, and shows how this trinity is manifested in men and angels, who are images of the Divine. It unfolds also the Doctrine of Degrees, and explains the three discrete degrees of the human mind, showing when and by what means these are opened, and what is affected by their opening. It further reveals the origin of evil uses, and the origin, design, and tendency of good uses.

Angelic Wisdom concerning the Divine Providence. pp. 274. Price, $1.25.

This work treats of the nature and operations of the Divine Providence, and unfolds the laws of order according to which God's moral government is regulated. It shows that His end in the creation of the world was a heaven of angels from the human race; that the Divine Providence works not at random, but according to certain invariable LAWS which are here disclosed; that it is universal, extending to the least things as well as to the greatest; that in all it does it has respect to what is eternal with man, and to things temporary only for the sake of what is eternal; that the laws of permission are also among the laws of Divine Providence; that evils are permitted for the sake of the end, which is salvation; that the Divine Providence is equally with the wicked and the good; that every man may be reformed, and that there is no such thing as predestination; that the Lord cannot act against the laws of His Providence, because to act against them would be to act against Divine Love and his Divine Wisdom, consequently against Himself.

The True Christian Religion; containing the Universal Theology of the New Church foretold by the Lord in the Apocalypse, xxi., 1, 2, with the Coronis and a copious Index. pp. 982. Price, $2.50.

This is the last work which Swedenborg published, and contains a full and comprehensive statement of the theology of the New Church in all its branches. The nature and scope of the work will be best indicated by the following titles of the several chapters:—

I.—God the Creator. II.—The Lord, the Redeemer. III.—The Holy Spirit and the Divine Operation, (treating also of the Divine Trinity). IV.—The Sacred Scripture or Word of the Lord. V.—The Decalogue explained as to its external and internal sense. VI.—Faith. VII.—Charity and Good Works. VIII.—Free Will. IX.—Repentance. X.—Reformation and Regeneration. XI.—Imputation. XII.—Baptism. XIII.—The Holy Supper. XIV.—The Consummation of the Age; the Second Coming of the Lord; the new Heaven and the New Church.

There are, also, interspersed between the chapters, relations of things seen and heard in the spiritual world, and a supplement treating of that world.

The Four Leading Doctrines of the New Church. pp. 247. Price, $1.00.

1. The Doctrine of the Lord. 2. The Doctrine of the Sacred Scriptures. 3. The Doctrine of Faith. 4. The Doctrine of Life. Also, Answers to Nine Questions, chiefly relating to the Lord, the Holy Trinity, and the Holy Spirit.

These were originally published as separate treatises. They are elaborate expositions of these leading Doctrines of the Church.

Conjugial Love. pp. 472. Price, $1.25.

1. Conjugial Love and its chaste delights. 2. Adulterous Love and its sinful pleasures.

A work which treats of the relation and constitutional difference of the sexes; of the indissoluble nature of true marriage; of the nature and origin of love truly conjugial; of the marriage of the Lord and the Church, and its correspondence; of the spiritual conjunction of marriage partners in true marriage, so that they are no longer two, but one flesh; of the change of the state of life with both sexes by marriage; of the causes of disaffection, separations, and divorces in marriage; of the causes of apparent love, friendship, and favor in marriage; and of iterated marriages. To which is added a treatise on Adulterous or Scortatory Love in its various degrees, showing it to be in its nature the very opposite of Conjugial Love —as opposite as heaven is to hell.

Miscellaneous Theological Works. One vol.; pp. 526. Price, $1.50.

1. The New Jerusalem and its Heavenly Doctrine. 2. Brief Exposition of the Doctrines of the New Church. 3. Nature of the Intercourse between the Soul and the Body. 4. The White Horse, mentioned in the Apocalypse; with Appendix. 5. The Earths in the Universe. 6. The Last Judgment; with continuation.

The first of these contains a summary statement of the Doctrines of the New Church, with copious references to the Arcana, where the same doctrines are more fully unfolded. The second exhibits some of the more important of these doctrines in contrast with those of the former Christian Church. The third treats of Influx, showing how the spiritual flows into the material, and the manner in which the soul operates upon the body. The fourth unfolds the spiritual meaning of the White Horse mentioned in the Apocalypse, with references to the Arcana, where the subject is further elucidated. The fifth describes the appearance, character, and mode of life of the inhabitants of other earths, with which the author became acquainted through his intercourse with spirits from those earths. The sixth explains the nature and manner of the Last General Judgment, which occurred in the World of Spirits in 1757, when also the New Dispensation, known as the New Jerusalem, commenced.

HEADQUARTERS OF THE ARMY,
WASHINGTON, July 17, 1873.

GENERAL ORDERS No. 6.—The following order, received from the War Department, is published for the information and guidance of the Army:

WAR DEPARTMENT,
WASHINGTON CITY, July 17, 1873.

The revision of Upton's Infantry Tactics by the author, and the Tactics for Artillery and Cavalry [including the proceedings of the board—Major-General Schofield, President—instituted by General Orders No. 60, Headquarters of the Army, Adjutant-General's Office, series of 1869], assimilated to the Tactics for Infantry, pursuant to instructions from the General of the Army, by—

Lieutenant-Colonel Emory Upton, 1st Artillery, Instructor of Tactics, U. S. Military Academy;

Captain Henry A. Du Pont, 5th Artillery, commanding Battery "F," 5th Artillery;

Captain John E. Tourtellotte, 7th Cavalry, Colonel and Aide-de-Camp to the General;

Captain Alfred E. Bates, 2d Cavalry, Assistant Instructor of Cavalry Tactics, U. S. Military Academy—having been approved by the President, are adopted for the instruction of the Army and Militia of the United States.

To insure uniformity, all exercises, evolutions, and ceremonies not embraced in these Tactics are prohibited, and those therein prescribed will be strictly observed.

WM. W. BELKNAP, Secretary of War.

By command of General Sherman.

WILLIAM D. WHIPPLE, Assistant Adjutant-General.

APPLETONS'

AMERICAN CYCLOPÆDIA.

NEW REVISED EDITION.

Entirely rewritten by the ablest writers on every subject. Printed from new type, and illustrated with Several Thousand Engravings and Maps.

The work originally published under the title of THE NEW AMERICAN CYCLOPÆDIA was completed in 1863, since which time the wide circulation which it has attained in all parts of the United States, and the signal developments which have taken place in every branch of science, literature, and art, have induced the editors and publishers to submit it to an exact and thorough revision, and to issue a new edition entitled THE AMERICAN CYCLOPÆDIA.

Within the last ten years the progress of discovery in every department of knowledge has made a new work of reference an imperative want.

The movement of political affairs has kept pace with the discoveries of science, and their fruitful application to the industrial and useful arts and the convenience and refinement of social life. Great wars and consequent revolutions have occurred, involving national changes of peculiar moment. The civil war of our own country, which was at its height when the last volume of the old work appeared, has happily been ended, and a new course of commercial and industrial activity has been commenced.

Large accessions to our geographical knowledge have been made by the indefatigable explorers of Africa.

The great political revolutions of the last decade, with the natural result of the lapse of time, have brought into public view a multitude of new men, whose names are in every one's mouth, and of whose lives every one is curious to know the particulars. Great battles have been fought, and important sieges maintained, of which the details are as yet preserved only in the newspapers, or in the transient publications of the day, but which ought now to take their place in permanent and authentic history.

In preparing the present edition for the press, it has accordingly been the aim of the editors to bring down the information to the latest possible dates, and to furnish an accurate account of the most recent discoveries in science, of every fresh production in literature, and the newest inventions in the practical arts, as well as to give a succinct and original record of the progress of political and historical events.

The work has been begun after long and careful preliminary labor, and with the most ample resources for carrying it on to a successful termination.

None of the original stereotype plates have been used, but every page has been printed on new type, forming in fact a new Cyclopædia, with the same plan and compass as its predecessor, but with a far greater pecuniary expenditure, and with such improvements in its composition as have been suggested by longer experience and enlarged knowledge.

The illustrations, which are introduced for the first time in the present edition, have been added not for the sake of pictorial effect, but to give greater lucidity and force to the explanations in the text. They embrace all branches of science and of natural history, and depict the most famous and remarkable features of scenery, architecture, and art, as well as the various processes of mechanics and manufactures. Although intended for instruction rather than embellishment, no pains have been spared to insure their artistic excellence; the cost of their execution is enormous, and it is believed that they will find a welcome reception as an admirable feature of the Cyclopædia, and worthy of its high character.

This work is sold to subscribers only, payable on delivery of each volume. It is now completed in sixteen large octavo volumes, each containing over 800 pages, fully illustrated with several thousand Wood Engravings, and with numerous colored Lithographic Maps.

APPLETONS' PERIODICALS.

APPLETONS' JOURNAL:

A MONTHLY MISCELLANY OF POPULAR LITERATURE.

NEW SERIES.

TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER NUMBER. THREE DOLLARS PER ANNUM.

APPLETONS' JOURNAL is now published monthly; it is devoted to popular literature and all matters of taste and general culture—published at a price to bring it within the reach of all classes. It contains superior fiction, in the form of serials and short stories; papers graphically descriptive of picturesque places; articles upon men of note, and upon the habits of different peoples; essays upon household and social topics; articles of travel and adventure; scientific and industrial articles written in a graphic and popular style. In brief, the aim is to be comprehensive, including in its plan all branches of literature and all themes of interest to intelligent readers. Each number is illustrated.

TERMS: Three dollars per annum, postage prepaid, to all subscribers in the United States; or Twenty-five Cents per number. A Club of Four Yearly Subscriptions will entitle the sender to an extra subscription gratis; that is, five copies will be sent one year for twelve dollars. For $7.20, APPLETONS' JOURNAL and THE POPULAR SCIENCE MONTHLY (full price, eight dollars), postage prepaid.

THE POPULAR SCIENCE MONTHLY.

Conducted by E. L. YOUMANS.

This periodical was started (in 1872) to promote the diffusion of valuable scientific knowledge, in a readable and attractive form, among all classes of the community, and has thus far met a want supplied by no other magazine in the United States.

Containing instructive and interesting articles and abstracts of articles, original, selected, translated, and illustrated, from the pens of the leading scientific men of different countries; accounts of important scientific discoveries, the application of science to the practical arts, and the latest views put forth concerning natural phenomena, have been given by savants of the highest authority. Prominent attention has been also devoted to those various sciences which help to a better understanding of the nature of man, to the bearings of science upon the questions of society and government, to scientific education, and to the conflicts which spring from the progressive nature of scientific knowledge.

THE POPULAR SCIENCE MONTHLY is published monthly in a large octavo, handsomely printed on clear type, and, when the subjects admit, fully illustrated.

TERMS: $5.00 per annum, or Fifty Cents per Number. Postage prepaid to all Subscribers in the United States.

THE ART JOURNAL:

An International Gallery of Engravings,

BY DISTINGUISHED ARTISTS OF EUROPE AND AMERICA;

WITH ILLUSTRATED PAPERS IN THE VARIOUS BRANCHES OF ART.

THE ART JOURNAL is a monthly publication, quarto size, superbly illustrated and printed, and specially devoted to the world of Art—Painting, Sculpture, Architecture, Decoration, Engraving, Etching, Enameling, and Designing in all its branches—having in view the double purpose of supplying a complete illustrated record of progress in the Arts, and of affording a means for the cultivation of Art-taste among the people. Each number is richly and abundantly illustrated on both steel and wood, and no pains are spared to render this "ART JOURNAL" the most valuable publication of the kind in the world. It contains the Steel Plates and Illustrations of the LONDON ART JOURNAL, a publication of world-wide fame (the exclusive right of which, for Canada and the United States, has been purchased by the publishers); with extensive additions devoted principally to American Art and American topics. Published monthly. Sold only by Subscription. Price, 75 Cents per Number; $9.00 per Annum, postage prepaid.

Subscriptions received by the Publishers, or their Agents. HIGHER THOUGHT.

Evolution and Progress:

An Exposition and Defence. The Foundation of Evolution Philosophically Expounded, and its Arguments (divested of insignificant and distracting physical details) succinctly stated; together with a review of leading opponents, as Dawson and Winchell, and quasi-opponents, as Le Conte and Carpenter. By Rev. WILLIAM I. GILL, A. M., of Newark Conference, N. J. The first volume of the International Prize Series. THIRD EDITION. Cloth extra, imitation morocco, fine paper, 295 pp., 12mo., Price . $1 50

Each volume in this series was awarded a prize of Two Hundred Dollars in addition to copyright, in a competition which was open one year to the world, and where over three hundred manuscripts were submitted and read.

DESCRIPTIVE OPINIONS OF EVOLUTION AND PROGRESS.

One of our most candid and thoughtful writers.—Dr. Crane.
He is a clear and strong reasoner.—Cincinnati Christian Standard.
A particularly strong argument.—Evansville (Ind.) Daily Journal.
It is ably written. Builds on philosophical principles.—Brooklyn Union.
The attitude of Mr. Gill, and his courage in maintaining it, are worthy of note.—New York World.
I rejoice in all attempts of this kind, made in a spirit like that which prompts your work.—Herbert Spencer.
His writings are marked by strong common sense, sound logic, and clear demonstration.—Methodist Home Journal.
It is a book of original thinking on one of the greatest themes.....A keen, thoughtful, vigorous volume.—Golden Age.
He strikes with no velvet glove, but with a steel-clad hand, dealing his blows with equal profusion and impartiality.—New York Tribune.
His effort is earnest, able and bold.....It presents, in all their naked strength, thoughts and arguments which will have to be met and answered.—The Methodist, New York.

Analytical Processes;

Or, The Primary Principle of Philosophy. By REV. WILLIAM I. GILL, A. M., author of "Evolution and Progress." The Third Volume of the International Prize Series. Cloth extra, fine paper, uniform with "Evolution and Progress," 450 pp., 12mo. Price $2 00.

A work which the committee cannot describe without seeming to exaggerate. It is marked by extraordinary depth and originality, and yet it is so clear and convincing as to make its novel conclusions appear like familiar common sense.—From Report of Committee of Prize Award.

It contains a vast amount of able and conscientious thought and acute criticism.—Dr. McCosh, Prest. Princeton College.

A specimen of robust thinking. I am very much gratified with its thoroughness, acuteness and logical coherence.—Dr. Anderson, Pres't Rochester University.

Ecclesiology:

A Fresh Inquiry as to the Fundamental Idea and Constitution of the New Testament Church; with a Supplement on Ordination. By REV. E. J. FISH, D. D. Cloth extra, fine paper, 400 pp., 12mo. . Price $2 00.

DOCTOR FISH disposes this volume into four parts.—I. The Fundamental Idea of the Church; II. The New Testament Church Constitution; III. Application of Principles; IV. A Supplement on Ordinaton—and addresses himself to his themes with the full earnestness of ability, clearness of logic, and conscientiousness of spirit which comprehensive treatment requires. As a "building fitly framed together," it is a fair-minded and standard contribution to the best religious literature of the Christian age.

The Beauty of the King:

By REV. A. H. HOLLOWAY, A. M., author of "Good Words for S. S. Teachers," "Teachers' Meetings," etc. Cloth extra, 174 pp. 12mo, $1.00; full gilt, beveled edges, $1.25.

A remarkably clear, comprehensive and intelligible exposition of the natural and spiritual causes, processes and effects of the birth, life and death of Jesus—a subject much discussed, yet not generally understood now-a-days.

Life for a Look:

By REV. A. H. HOLLOWAY, A. M. Paper covers, 32mo. Price, 15 cts.

Earnest, cogent words, marrowy with the spirit of honest, old-fashioned Religion.

Christian Conception and Experience.

By Rev. WM. I. GILL, A. M., author of "Evolution and Progress," "Analytical Processes," etc. Imitation Morocco 12mo. . . . . Price, $1 00.

A fresh exposition and argument, practically enforced by a remarkable narrative of the conversion of a skeptic through this same argument. While it exhibits in parts the philosophic cast of the author's mind, its vivacious and lucid treatment will create for it a universal interest. This third work—in order of publication—by this fearless investigator, has, in large part, been written since his Trial before the Newark Methodist Episcopal Conference, under the charge of "Heresy," for writing his EVOLUTION AND PROGRESS, and it supplies abundant, fresh and vigorous thought-pabulum for the entertainment of heretics, critics, and Christians alike.

Resurrection of the Body. Does the Bible Teach it?

By E. NISBET, D. D. With an Introduction by G. W. SAMSON, D. D., late President of Columbian University, D. C. Fine English cloth, 12mo. Price $1.00.

This is the careful work of an independent thinker and bold investigator. He strips away the trammels of hereditary prejudice, breaks the "old bottles" of unreasoning bias, and, with invincible logic, enters a field of research which had almost made a coward of thought. He begs no questions, makes no special pleadings, but meets the issue in its full front with such clean honesty and consummate ability that the book will interest and instruct every fair-minded reader, and charm and gratify every earnest student.

Reverend Green Willingwood;

Or, LIFE AMONG THE CLERGY. By Rev. ROBERT FISHER. Silk cloth, ink and gold, beveled edges, full gilt. 12mo, $1.25.

With a resolute spirit and a knightly lance the Rev. Green Willingwood fights the battles of his brother clergymen. His battle ground is in the midst of every congregation. His armament is comprised of faithful work, hearty humor and delicate satire. In short, Rev. Green Willingwood says and does precisely that which is wont to be said and done, but which, for obvious reasons, cannot be spoken from the pulpit nor accomplished directly in the pastorate.

Is Our Republic a Failure?

A discussion of the Rights and the Wrongs of the North and the South. By E. H. WATSON, author of "United States and their Origin," etc. English cloth, ink and gold, 12mo, 436 pp. . . . . Price, $1.50

In a spirit of genuine candor and unswerving impartiality.—N. Y. Sun.

It is fair, candid, impartial, the whole subject well treated.—HON. J. H. BLAKE, of Boston.

I like the spirit of the book, its comprehensive patriotism, its liberal spirit, and its healing counsels.—HON. GEO. S. HILLARD, author of "Franklin Readers," "Six Months in Italy," etc.

I read the manuscript with much interest—an interest belonging to the arguments themselves, but now increased by the perfection given to the form and style.—HON. MARTIN BRIMMER, Boston.

Lucid and just. The method of the argument, the facts on which it proceeds, and the conciliatory spirit which invests them, contribute to the book a value which cannot be too highly estimated.—GEN. JOHN COCHRANE.

The principles of American statesmanship which it asserts, must essentially prevail, unless we are so soon to fall from our original high plane of constitutional republicanism. I shall spare no exertion to promote the knowledge of such an able and impartial and statesmanlike compendium of our present political philosophy.—HON. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS, Mass.

Clearly expressed, and the argument is closely and ably maintained. The tone and the temper of the writer are beyond praise. They are as valuable as they are rare. They are those of a patriotic and philosophical observer of men. The like spirit everywhere diffused among our people would make fraternal union as certain as desirable; and if brought to the discussion of public affairs, would secure the adoption of wise and beneficent counsels.—HON. GEO. H. PENDLETON, Ohio.

Universe of Language:

Its Nature and Structure, with Uniform Notation and Classification of Vowels, adapted to all Languages. By the late GEORGE WATSON, Esq., of Boston. Edited with preliminary Essays, by his daughter, E. Lays open a whole network of the tender and emotional.—Williamsport (Pa.) Daily Register.

The unity is well preserved, the characters maintaining that probability so essential in the higher forms of fiction.—Baltimore Methodist Protestant.

There is a peculiar charm in the reading of this book, which every one who peruses it must feel. It is very like to that which is inspired in reading any of Hawthorne's romances.—Hartford Religious Herald.

Wild Flowers:

Poems. By CHARLES W. HUBNER, author of "Souvenirs of Luther." Elegantly printed on fine tinted paper, with portrait of the Author, imitation morocco and beveled edges, 196 pp., 12mo. Just ready, Price $1.00. The same, gilt top, beveled edges, $1.25

As a poet MR. HUBNER is conservative—always tender and delicate, never turbid or erratic. He evinces a strong love of nature and high spirituality, and brings us, from the humblest places and in the humbliest guises, beauties of the heart, the life, the universe, and, while placing them before our vision, has glorified them and shown that within them of whose existence we had never dreamed.

Her Waiting Heart:

A Novel. By LOU CAPSADELL, author of "Hallow E'en." Cloth extra, 192 pp., 12mo. Just ready. $1 00.

A story of New York—drawn from the familiar phases of life, which, under the calmest surfaces, cover the greatest depths. Charming skill is shown in the naturalness of characterization, development of plot and narrative, strength of action and delicacy of thought.

Shadowed Perils:

A Novel. By M. A. AVERY, author of "The Loyal Bride," etc. English cloth, 260 pp., 12mo, . . . $1 25

The story is bold and dramatic in action, graceful in narrative, strong in characterization, intense in interest, sweet and pure in tone, and is marked by keen sympathy with the lowly and oppressed.

Egypt Ennis; or, Prisons Without Walls:

A Novel. By KELSIC ETHERIDGE. Paper, 97 pp., 8vo., ... Price, 35 cents.

Has the curiosity-exciting tendency.—Boston Beacon.

The interest grows and retains attention to the end.—N. O. Picayune.

Short, sententious, marrowy, and spiced with episodes. Has a warm southern aroma of orange and magnolia blossoms.—Baltimore Meth. Prot.

Of rare beauty and power in its vivid, life-like picturing of men and places. . . . . Through such artistic touches of skill and strength we are wafted in thought as we follow the hero and heroine through the mazes of the old, old story.—Ladies' Pearl, St. Louis.

The Travelers' Grab-Bag; or, the Heart of a Quiet Hour:

A Hand-book for utilizing fragments of leisure in railroad trains, steamboats, way stations and easy chairs. Edited by AN OLD TRAVELER. . . . . Paper, 100 pp., 8vo. . . . . Price, 35 cents.

Full of spice and fun.—Baltimore Meth. Prot.

No traveler should be without it.—N. Y. Forest and Stream.

Teeming with rollicking humor and a kind of satire that will be enjoyable.—Pittsburgh Commercial.

The Buccaneers:

A stirring Historical Novel. By RANDOLPH JONES, Esq. Large 12mo, cloth extra, ink and gold, . . . $1.50

Is drawn from the most daring deeds of the Buccaneers and the sharpest events in the early settlement of Maryland and Virginia. It is so full of thrilling action, so piquant in sentiment, and so thoroughly alive with the animation of the bold and ambitious spirits whose acts it records with extraordinary power, that the publishers confidently bespeak "THE BUCCANEERS" as the most strongly marked and the best of all American novels issued during the year.

THE WORLD'S SAGES, THINKERS AND REFORMERS. A crown-octavo volume. By D. M. BENNETT, Editor of THE TRUTH SEEKER. With a steel-plate engraving of the author. Second edition, carefully revised and enlarged. Being the biographies and important doctrines of the most distinguished Teachers, Philosophers, Reformers, Innovators, Founders of New Schools of Thought and Religion, Disbelievers in current Theology, and the deepest Thinkers and most active Humanitarians of the world, from Menu down through the following three thousand years to our own time. It is divided into four parts. Part I. from Menu to Christ. Part II. from Christ to Thomas Paine. Part III. from Thomas Paine to George Sand. Part IV. Living Characters. To which is added an appendix of many characters. 1,200 pp. Crown-octavo. The work is printed from new type and on good paper, and is bound in good style. Price in cloth, $3.00; leather, $4.00; morocco, gilt edges, $4.50

CHAMPIONS OF THE CHURCH. Biographical Sketches of Eminent Christians. Forthcoming. A companion book to "The World's Sages, Thinkers and Reformers." Will be issued in the Autumn of 1877. Containing a correct history of distinguished Ornaments of the Church. A full history is given of the bloody wars of Christianity, which have been inhumanly waged to spread its rule. It also contains a history of Jesuitism for three centuries. The whole is based upon Christian authorities. By D. M. BENNETT, Editor of THE TRUTH SEEKER. THE HEATHENS OF THE HEATH, a Romance, by WM. MCDONNELL, author "Exeter Hall," etc. This work is rich in romantic and pathetic incidents, and exhibits with an overwhelming array of fact, the atrocities committed by the Church. "One of the most valuable features of the work is, its positions are all proved. Every thinking, enquiring mind should peruse it." 500 pp., 12mo. Price, in paper, $1.00; cloth, $1.50.

THE HUMPHREY-BENNETT DISCUSSION.—A Debate between Rev. G. H. Humphrey, Presbyterian Clergyman, and D. M. Bennett, Editor of THE TRUTH SEEKER, held in the columns of THE TRUTH SEEKER commencing April 7th, 1877, and continued nearly six months. Three propositions were discussed as follows: 1 Did Unbelievers in the Bible do as much for American Independence as the Believers in it? 2. Has Infidelity done as much as Christianity to promote learning and science? 3. Is there a stronger probability that Infidelity is true than that the Bible is Divine? Bennett affirming Humphrey denying. The discussion attracted marked attention both from believers and unbelievers in revealed religion, as in it both sides were fairly represented. 12mo. 400 pp. Paper covers 75 cents; cloth $1.00.

Held during four days at Aylmer, Ont. Commencing June 29, 1875. Reported by JOHN T. HAWKE. First Proposition—"The Christian Religion, as set forth in the New Testament, is true in fact, and of divine origin." BURGESS in the affirmative; UNDERWOOD in the negative. Second Proposition—"The Bible is erroneous in many of its teachings regarding Science and Morals, and is of human origin." UNDERWOOD in the affirmative; BURGESS in the negative. 12mo, 188 pp. Price, in paper, 50 cents; in cloth, 80 cents.

THE UNDERWOOD-MARPLES DEBATE, between B. F. UNDERWOOD, of Boston, and the Rev. JOHN MARPLES, of Toronto, Ont. Held at Napanee, Ont., in July, 1875. Two propositions discussed. First—"That Atheism, Naturalism and Modern Skepticism are illogical and contrary to Reason." Second—"The Bible, consisting of the Old and New Testaments, evidences beyond all other books its divine origin. Copy of a letter from Rt. Rev. Bishop Gilmour, formerly pastor of St. Patrick's Church, Cincinnati, O.

ST. PATRICK'S CHURCH, Cincinnati, Feb. 27, 1868.

I hereby certify that I have long known Mr. Gustave Knopp, author of "Knopp's System of Penmanship," that he has been engaged during last as also the present session at St. Patrick's School as Instructor of Penmanship, and the result has been entire satisfaction, beside wonder and astonishment at the rapidity with which the pupil under his instruction not only acquires correctness in the forms, but ease, rapidity of motion and the highest ornaments of commercial writing. I have carefully examined his system, and am much pleased with its simple gracefulness and ornamental boldness.

Paper 3

A NOVELTY FOR THE HOLIDAYS!

CATHOLIC PRAYER-BOOKS

IN

POLISHED, FRENCH, VENEER BINDINGS.

This new and unique style of binding is one of the most striking ever offered. It possesses all the elegance of tortoise-shell, but is more durable, and, what is important, much cheaper. The sides of the books are of fine, polished, natural-wood veneers, finished with metal rims, either gilt or nickel-plated, and with a metal cross in the centre; the backs are of rich Lyons velvet. Our are unequalled for beauty and for excellence of binding. They are all provided with gilt rims and clasps, and the centres are ornamented with either metal mountings, painted porcelain medallions, or enameled crosses. Of our ENGLISH CALF, and TURKEY MOROCCO bindings it is enough to say that they are always kept to the same uniform, high standard which has gained them such unequalled reputation.

OF

BOERICKE & TAFEL,

New York,

PHILADELPHIA, BALTIMORE, SAN FRANCISCO.

Aconite, Monograph on, its Therapeutic and Physiological Effects, together with its Uses, and Accurate Statements, derived from the Various Sources of Medical Literature. By A. Reil, M.D. Translated from the German by H. B. Millard, M.D. Prize Essay. 168 pages, 8vo. 75 cents.

Allen, Dr. T. F. The Encyclopedia of Pure Materia Medica, a Record of the Positive Effects of Drugs upon the Healthy Human Organism. With contributions from Dr. Richard Hughes, of England; Dr. C. Hering, of Philadelphia; Dr. Carroll Dunham, of New York; Dr. Adolph Lippe, of Philadelphia, and others. Vol. I and II. Price per volume, in cloth, $6.00; in sheep, $7.00; half morocco, $7.50.

☞ The first volume of this grand work contains on its 638 closely printed pages, the pathogenesis of one hundred and six remedies—ending with Atropine; and the second volume, on 640 pages, the pathogenesis of seventy-four remedies—ending with Carduus marianus. The work is steadily proceeding, and the third volume will probably be complete in November, 1875. The whole work will be completed in about ten volumes.

Annual Record of Homœopathic Literature, 1870. Edited by C. G. Raue, M.D. 496 pages, 8vo. $3.50.

☞ In the preparation of the ANNUAL RECORD, Professor Raue has been assisted by an able corps of collaborators, and no labor or expense has been spared to have the whole a complete digest of all the valuable information scattered throughout the periodical literature of homœopathy, during the year 1869. The journals of the United States, England, Germany, France, Spain, and other countries, have furnished materials for this great work.

Annual Record of Homœopathic Literature, 1871. Edited by C. G. Raue, M.D. 255 pages, 8vo. $2.50.

☞ The arrangement of the work is the same as that of last year. Dr. C. Hering has arranged the part on materia medica, Dr. T. F. Allen, the chapter on the eye, Dr. M. McFarlan, the surgical part, and the rest by Dr. C. G. Raue. There is no appendix to this volume.

Annual Record of Homœopathic Literature, 1872. Edited by C. G. Raue, M.D. 338 pages, 8vo. $3.00.

Annual Record of Homœopathic Literature, 1873. Edited by C. G. Raue, M.D. 332 pages, 8vo. $3.00.

Annual Record of Homœopathic Literature, 1874. Edited by C. G. Raue, M.D. 376 pages, 8vo. $3.00.

Apis Mellifica, or the Poison of the Honey Bee, considered as a Therapeutic Agent. By Dr. C. W. Wolff. 80 pages, 12mo. 25 cents.

Baehr, Dr. B. The Science of Therapeutics, according to the Principles of Homœopathy. Translated and enriched with numerous additions from Kafka and other sources. By C. J. Hempel, M.D. 2 vols., 1387 pages, royal 8vo. $10.00.

☞ This work is to take the place of the late Hartmann's Acute and Chronic Diseases, but in point of scientific value and practical usefulness, it is far superior to the former. Dr. Hempel has incorporated large sections from Kafka in the same; has also, on suitable occasions, introduced the new remedies, and has made valuable additions from our journals and his personal records.

Becker, Dr. A. C. Diseases of the Digestive Organs and Constipation, treated Homœopathically. Second American from the third London edition, with additions. 128 pages, 12mo. 50 cents.

Becker, Dr. A. C. Dentition, according to some of the best and latest German authorities. 82 pages, 12mo. 50 cents.

Becker, Dr. A. C. Diseases of the Eye, treated Homœopathically. From the German. 77 pages, 12mo. 50 cents.

Bell, Dr. Jas. B. The Homœopathic Therapeutics of Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Cholera, Cholera morbus, Cholera infantum, and all other loose evacuations of the Bowels. 168 pages, 12mo. Bound in muslin, $1.25. Interleaved with writing paper, half morocco, $2.25.

Berjeau, J. Ph. The Homœopathic Treatment of Syphilis, Gonorrhœa, Spermatorrhœa, and Urinary Diseases. Revised, with numerous additions. By J. H. P. Frost, M.D. 256 pages, 12mo. $1.50.

Boenninghausen, Dr. C. Essay on the Homœopathic Treatment of Intermittent Fever. Translated and edited by C. J. Hempel, M.D. 8vo. 50 cents.

Boenninghausen's Homœopathic Therapeia of Intermittent and other Fevers. Translated, with the addition of new remedies, by A. Korndœrfer, M.D. 245 pages, 8vo. $2.25.

Boenninghausen, Dr. C. The Sides of the Body and Drug Affinities. Homœopathic Exercises. Translated and edited by J. C. Hempel, M.D. 12mo. 25 cents.

Breyfogle, Dr. W. L. Epitome of Homœopathic Medicines. 383 pages, 12mo. $1.50. Interleaved with writing paper, half morocco, 18mo, $3.00.

☞ This work differs from other Epitomes, in treating of a larger number of remedies, and the arrangement of its material in comparative form. The leading symptoms of all well-established provings are here arranged in as concise form as possible.

Bryant, Dr. J. A Pocket Manual or Repertory of Homœopathic Medicine. Alphabetically and Nosologically arranged; which may be used as the Physicians' Vade-Mecum, the Travelers' Medical Companion, or the Family Physician. Containing the principal remedies for the most important diseases, symptoms, sensations, characteristics of diseases, etc., with the principal pathogenetic effects of the medicines on the most important organs and functions of the body; together with diagnosis, explanation of technical terms, directions for the selection and exhibition of remedies, rules of diet, etc. Compiled from the best Homœopathic authorities. Third edition. 352 pages, 18mo. $2.00.

Buchner, J. Morbus Brightii. Translated by S. Lilienthal, M.D. 148 pages, $1.25.

Burt, Dr. W. H. Characteristic Materia Medica. Second edition. 541 pages, 12mo. $3.00. Interleaved with writing paper, half morocco, $5.00.

☞ In this work the author gives the characteristic symptoms or keynotes of two hundred and three remedies, and has adopted the method of grouping those remedies which produce similar physico-pathological and pathogenetic symptoms.

Caspari's Homœopathic Domestic Physician. Edited by F. Hartmann, M.D., Author of the Acute and Chronic Diseases. Translated from the eighth German edition, and enriched by a Treatise on Anatomy and Physiology, by W. P. Esrey, M.D., with additions and a preface by C. Hering, M.D. Containing also a tabular index of the medicines and the diseases in which they are used, etc. With 30 illustrations. 475 pages, 8vo. $1.00.

Cockburn, Dr. S. Medical Reform; being an examination into the nature of the prevailing system of medicine, and an exposition of some of its chief evils, with Allopathic revelations. A remedy for the evil. 180 pages, 18mo. 50 cents.

Curtis, J. T., M.D., and J. Lillie, M.D. An Epitome of Homœopathic Practice, compiled chiefly from Jahr Ruckert, Beauvais, Bœnninghausen, etc. 206 pages, 18mo. 75 cents.

☞ This handy little volume contains the most prominent symptoms of one hundred and nineteen remedies, to which is added a well-arranged Repertory.

Douglas, Dr. J. S. Homœopathic Treatment of Intermittent Fevers. 108 pages, 18mo. 38 cents.

Ellis, Dr. John. The Avoidable Causes of Disease, Insanity, and Deformity. 12mo. $2.00.

Ellis, Dr. John. Family Homœopathy. 12mo. $1.50.

Franklin, Dr. E. C. The Science and Art of Surgery, embracing minor and operative Surgery, compiled from standard Allopathic authorities, and adapted to Homœopathic Therapeutics. Illustrated by new and copious engravings and many original cuts from the author's private museum. 2 vols., bound, $17.00.

Gilchrist, Dr. J. G. The Homœopathic Treatment of Surgical Diseases. $3.75.

Goullon, Dr. H. Scrofulous Affections and the Advantages of their Treatment according to the Principles and Experiences of Homœopathy. Described and demonstrated by numerous examples of successful cures. Translated from the German by Emil Tietze, M.D. 355 pages, 8vo. $2.00.

Gray & Hempel. Homœopathic Examiner. 2 vols., 8vo. Bound, $5.00.

Gross, Dr. H. Comparative Materia Medica. Edited by C. Hering, M.D. Royal 8vo. Extra heavy tinted paper. $10.00.

☞ In this work the remedies are arranged alphabetically, so that in the left-hand column will be found the remedy to be compared, and in the right-hand column the remedies it is compared with, also in alphabetical order. The whole is enriched by numerous marginal annotations and remarks by the illustrious Editor.

Guernsey, Dr. H. N. The Application of the Principles and Practice of Homœopathy to Obstetrics, and the Disorders peculiar to Women and Young Children. With numerous illustrations. Second edition, revised, enlarged, and greatly improved. 986 pages. $9.00.

Guernsey, Dr. E. Homœopathic Domestic Practice, with full descriptions, and the dose in each single case. Containing also, chapters on Anatomy, Physiology, Hygiene, and an abridged Materia Medica. Ninth enlarged, revised, and improved edition. 653 pages, 8vo. $2.50.

Guernsey, Dr. E. The Gentleman's Hand-Book of Homœopathy; especially for Travelers and for Domestic Practice. 255 pages, 12mo. $1.00.

Hahnemann, Dr. S. The Lesser Writings of. Collected and translated by R. E. Dudgeon, M.D. With a Preface and Notes by E. E. Marcy, M.D. With a steel engraving of Hahnemann, from the statue by Steinhauser. 784 pages, 8vo. $4.00.

☞ This valuable work contains a large number of Essays, of great interest to laymen as well as medical men, upon Diet, the Prevention of Diseases, Ventilation of Dwellings, etc. As many of these papers were written before the discovery of the Homœopathic Theory of cure, the reader will be enabled to peruse in this volume the ideas of a gigantic intellect when directed to subjects of a general and practical interest.

Hahnemann, Dr. S. The Chronic Diseases; their specific Nature and Homœopathic Treatment. Translated and edited by C. J. Hempel, M.D. With a Preface by C. Hering, M.D. 5 vols., 12mo. Out of print.

Hahnemann, Dr. S. Organon of Homœopathic Medicine. Fourth American edition, with improvements and additions from the last German edition, and Dr. C. Hering's Introductory Remarks. Out of print.

Hahnemann, Dr. S. Materia Medica Pura. Translated by C. J. Hempel, M.D. 808 pages, 8vo. Out of print.

Hale, Dr. E. M. Lecture on Diseases of the Heart. In three parts. Part I—Functional Diseases of the Heart. Part II—Inflammatory Affections of the Heart. Part III—Organic Diseases of the Heart. 206 pages, 8vo. $2.00.

Hempel, Dr. C. J. The Science of Homœopathy; or, a Critical and Synthetical Index of the Doctrine of the Homœopathic School. 177 pages, large 8vo, cloth. $1.75.

Hempel, Dr. C. J. Complete Repertory of the Homœopathic Materia Medica. 1224 pages, 8vo. $6.00.

☞ The object of this work is simply to make the finding of any symptom or group of symptoms which a physician may be called upon to treat, a matter of perfect certainty; provided, always, such may exist among the results of our physiological provings. The classifications of the symptoms which have been adopted are more complete, and at the same time more practical, than anything of the kind ever published in our language.

Hempel, Dr. C. J. A New and Comprehensive System of Materia Medica and Therapeutics, arranged upon a Physiological-Pathological Basis, for the use of Practitioners and Students of Medicine. Second edition, revised and considerably enlarged. Two volumes, 1896 pages, royal 8vo. $12.00.

☞ The second edition of this standard work contains, in the form of lectures, the pathogenesis of two hundred and twenty-seven remedies, and as these are interspersed with numerous therapeutic remarks, it is generally adapted to the study of Materia Medica.

Hempel, Dr. C. J., and Dr. J. Beakley. Homœopathic Theory and Practice; with the Homœopathic Treatment of Surgical Diseases, designed for students and practitioners of medicine, and as a guide for an intelligent public generally. Fourth edition. 1100 pages, 8vo. $3.50.

Hull, Dr. A. G. Homœopathic Examiner. A few copies only remain of this very valuable periodical. 3 vols., handsomely bound, $15.00.

Hull's, Jahr. A New Manual of Homœopathic Practice. Edited, with annotations and additions, by F. G. Snelling, M.D. Sixth American edition, with an appendix of the new remedies, by C. J. Hempel, M.D. 2 vols., 2076 pages, 8vo. $11.00.

☞ This is the most complete work on Materia Medica at present offered for sale. The first volume, containing the Symptomatology, gives the complete pathogenesis of two hundred and eighty-seven remedies, besides which a large number of new remedies were added by Dr. Hempel in the appendix. The second volume contains an admirably arranged Repertory. Each chapter is accompanied by copious clinical remarks and the concomitant symptoms of the chief remedies for the malady treated of, thus imparting a mass of information, rendering the work indispensable to every student and practitioner of medicine.

Humphreys, Dr. F. Dysentery and its Homœopathic Treatment. Containing also a repertory and numerous cases. 87 pages, 18mo. 50 cents.

Humphreys, Dr. F. The Cholera and its Homœopathic Treatment. 72 pages, 18mo. 38 cents.

Hydriatics; or, Manual of the Water Cure, especially as practiced by Vincent Priesnitz in Græfenberg. Compiled and translated from the writings of Dr. Chas. Munde, Dr. Oertel, Dr. B. Hirschel, and other eye-witnesses and practitioners, by Francis Græter. 198 pages, 18mo. 50 cents.

Jahr, Dr. G. H. G. Therapeutic Guide; the most important results of more than forty years' practice, with personal observations regarding the truly reliable and practically verified curative indications in actual cases of disease. Translated, with notes and new remedies, by C. J. Hempel, M.D. 364 pages, 8vo. $3.50.

Jahr, Dr. G. H. G. Clinical Guide; or, Pocket Repertory for the treatment of Acute and Chronic Diseases. Translated by C. J. Hempel, M.D. Second American revised and enlarged edition, from the third German edition, enriched by the addition of the new remedies. By S. Lilienthal, M.D. 624 pages, 12mo. $3.00.

Jahr, Dr. G. H. G. The Homœopathic Treatment of Diseases of Females and Infants at the Breast. Translated from the French by C. J. Hempel, M.D. 422 pages, 8vo. $2.50.

☞ This work deserves the most careful attention on the part of Homœopathic practitioners. The diseases to which the female organism is subject are described with the most minute correctness, and the treatment is likewise indicated with a care that would seem to defy criticism. No one can fail to study this work with profit and pleasure.

Jahr, Dr. G. H. G. Diseases of the Skin; or, Alphabetical Repertory of the Skin Symptoms, and External Alterations of Substance, together with the Morbid Phenomena observed in the Glandular, Osseous, Mucous and Circulatory Symptoms, arranged with Pathological Remarks on Diseases of the Skin. Edited by C. J. Hempel, M.D. 515 pages, 18mo. $1.50.

Jahr, Dr. G. H. G. New Manual of the Homœopathic Materia Medica, with Possart's additions, arranged with reference to well-authenticated observations at the sick-bed, and accompanied by an alphabetical repertory, to facilitate and secure the selection of a suitable remedy in any given case. Fifth edition, revised and enlarged by the author. SYMPTOMATOLOGY and REPERTORY. Translated and edited by C. J. Hempel, M.D. 923 pages, 12mo. $4.50.

☞ In this work a condensed pathogenesis is given of two hundred and twenty-six remedies, eighty-two of which are additions by Possart, and are not contained in Jahr's former works. A well-arranged Repertory of 225 pages completes the work, and renders it an admirable companion at the bedside.

Jahr, Dr. G. H. G. The Venereal Diseases, their Pathological Nature, correct Diagnosis, and Homœopathic Treatment. Prepared in accordance with the author's own as well as with the experience of other physicians, and accompanied with critical discussions. Translated, with numerous and important additions from the works of other authors and from his own experience, by C. J. Hempel, M.D. 428 pages, 8vo. $4.00.

Index to the first eighteen volumes of the North American Journal of Homœopathy. 8vo. $2.00.

Johnson, Dr. J. D. Therapeutic Key; or, Practical Guide for the Homœopathic Treatment of Acute Diseases. Second edition. 297 pages, 18mo. Bound in linen, $1.50. Bound in flexible cover, $2.00.

Joslin, Dr. B. F. Principles of Homœopathy. In a Series of Lectures. 185 pages. 75 cents.

Joslin, Dr. B. F. Homœopathic Treatment of Epidemic Cholera. Third edition, with additions. 252 pages. 12mo. $1.00.

☞ This work offers the advantage of a threefold arrangement of the principal medicines, viz.: 1, to the varieties of cholera; 2, to its stages; and, 3, to its symptoms as arranged in repertories. These last will give the work a prominent value in treating the more frequent complaints of summer.

Kreussler, Dr. E. The Homœopathic Treatment of Acute and Chronic Diseases. Traslated from the German, with important additions and revisions. By C. J. Hempel, M.D. 190 pages, 12mo. 75 cents.

☞ The author is a practitioner of great experience and acknowledged talent. This work is distinguished by concise brevity and lucid simplicity in the description of the various diseases that usually come under the observation of physicians, and the remedies for the various symptoms are carefully indicated. Dr. Hempel has interspersed it with a number of highly useful and interesting notes, which cannot fail to enhance the value of this work to American physicians.

Laurie, Dr. J. Homœopathic Domestic. By A. Gerald Hull, M.D. Small edition. 264 pages, 18mo. 60 cents.

Laurie, Dr. J. Elements of Homœopathic Practice of Physics. An appendix to Laurie's Domestic, containing also all the Diseases of the Urinary and Genital Organs. 372 pages, 12mo. $1.25.

Laurie, Dr. J. The Parent's Guide. Containing the Diseases of Infancy and Childhood, and their Homœopathic Treatment. To which is added a Treatise on the Method of Rearing Children from their Earliest Infancy; comprising the essential branches of moral and physical education. Edited with additions. By W. Williamson, M.D. 460 pages, 12mo. $1.00.

☞ All the diseases to which children are liable, are described in this volume with remarkable conciseness and accuracy, and their treatment is indicated in such plain and precise language that no intelligent parent can have any difficulty in conducting to a satisfactory termination the various diseases described in this work.

Laurie, Dr. J. The Homœopathic Domestic Medicine. Fifth American from the twenty-first English edition. Edited and revised, with numerous important additions, and the introduction of the new remedies. By R. J. McClatchey, M.D. 1034 pages, 8vo. $5.00.

☞ The merits of "Laurie's Homœopathic Domestic Medicine" are best attested by the popularity of the work in Great Britain, where upwards of twenty-one thousand copies have been sold to the most intelligent portion of the community, and in this country the work ran through three editions in the first year.

Lippe, Dr. A. Key to the Materia Medica. 144 pages, 8vo. 75 cents.

☞ This is the first and only number of a series which were to contain a characteristic Materia Medica. The following remedies are treated of in this number: Aconitum nap., Arsenicum alb., Belladonna, Pulsatilla, Sepia, Sulphur, Phosphorus, Calcarea carb., Tilia europ., Agaricus musc., Rhus tox.

Lord, I. S. P. On Intermittent Fever and other Malarious Diseases. 341 pages, 8vo. $3.00.

☞ In an introduction of forty-seven pages, the author lays down his theory, and substantiates his views by a record of two hundred and fifteen cases of ague, of all kinds, giving their treatment, and a running commentary thereon. To these a very copious double index—one to the remedies and the other to the symptoms—serves as a concordance.

Lutze, Dr. A. Manual of Homœopathic Theory and Practice, Designed for the use of Physicians and Families. Translated from the German, with additions. By C. J. Hempel, M.D. From the sixtieth thousand of the German edition. 750 pages, 8vo. $2.50.

☞ This work, from the pen of the late Dr. Arthur Lutze, has the largest circulation of any Homœopathic work in Germany, no less than sixty thousand copies having been sold. The Introduction, occupying over fifty pages, contains the question of dose and rules for examining the patient, and diet; the next sixty pages contain a condensed pathogenesis of the remedies treated of in the work; the description and treatment of diseases occupy four hundred and eighteen pages, and the whole concludes with one hundred and seventy-three pages of Repertory and a copious Index; thus forming a concise and complete work on Theory and Practice.

Madden. Uterine Diseases, with an Appendix, containing Abstracts of 180 cases of Uterine Diseases and their Treatment; together with Analytical Tables of results, ages, symptoms, dose, etc., to which is added a Clinical Record of interesting cases, treated in the Manchester Homœopathic Hospital. 111 pages, 8vo. 50 cents.

Malan, H. Family Guide to the Administration of Homœopathic Remedies. 112 pages, 24mo. 30 cents.

Malan, H. Family Guide, in Spanish. 12mo. 75 cents.

Manual of Homœopathic Veterinary Practice. Designed for all kinds of Domestic Animals and Fowls; prescribing their proper treatment when injured or diseased, and their particular care and general management in health. 684 pages, 8vo. $5.00.

Marcy, Dr. E. E. Homœopathy and Allopathy. Reply to an Examination of the Doctrines and Evidences of Homœopathy. By Worthington Hooker, M.D. 144 pages, 12mo. 50 cents.

Marcy, Dr. E. E., and F. W. Hunt, M.D. The Homœopathic Theory and Practice of Medicine. 2 vols. 1896 pages, 8vo. $12.00.

☞ Of this work over three thousand copies are in circulation, and the demand still continues. It is used as a text-book in all our Homœopathic colleges ever since it was published, and is especially recommended to students of medicine.

Metcalf, Dr. Jas. W. Homœopathic Provings. Containing the Vienna Provings of Colocynth and Thuja-occidentalis, and the Symptoms of Æthusa-cynapium, Alcohol-sulphuris, Amphisbæna-vermicularis, Anagallis-arvensis, Apis-mellifica, Aristolochia-milhomens, Arsenicum-metallicum, Artemisia-vulgaris, Asterias-rubens, Cinnabaris, Turpethum, Coccus-cacti. 417 pages, 8vo, bound. $1.50.

Millard, Dr. H. B. The Climate and Statistics of Consumption. Read before the American Geographical and Statistical Society. With extensive additions by the author. 108 pages, 12mo. 75 cents.

Morgan, Dr. J. C. Diet of Infants and Young Children. 15 cents.

Morgan, Dr. W. The Homœopathic Treatment of Indigestion, Constipation, Hæmorrhoids. Edited, with notes and annotations. By A. E. Small, M.D. 166 pages, 12mo. 75 cents.

☞ Diseases resulting from irregularity or debility of the digestive organs are so frequent in their occurrence, that scarcely a family can be found in which one or more of its members are not sufferers thereby. The present work gives in a concise manner the hygienic measures, as well as the medical treatment, that may be observed, calculated not only to obviate the necessity of recourse to dangerous palliatives, but to promote a complete restoration of health.

Morgan, Dr. W. The Text-Book for Domestic Practice; being plain and concise directions for the administration of Homœopathic Medicines in single ailments. 191 pages, 24mo. 60 cents.

Munde, Dr. Chas. Hydriatic Treatment of Scarlet Fever in its different Forms, or how to save, through a Systematic Application of the Water Cure, many thousand lives and healths, which now annually perish. Being the result of twenty-one years' experience, and cure of several hundred cases of Eruptive Fevers. Fourth edition. 92 pages, 12mo. 50 cents.

Mure, Dr. B. Materia Medica; or, Provings of the Principal Animal and Vegetable Poisons of the Brazilian Empire, and their Application in the Treatment of Disease. Translated from the French and arranged according to Hahnemann's method. By C. J. Hempel, M.D. 220 pages, 12mo. $1.00.

☞ This volume, from the pen of the celebrated Dr. Mure, of Rio Janeiro, contains the pathogenesis of thirty-two remedies, a number of which are used in general practice ever since the appearance of the work. A faithful woodcut of the plant or animal treated of accompanies each pathogenesis.

Neidhard, Dr. C. On the Efficacy of Crotalus-horridus in Yellow Fever; also in Malignant, Bilious, and Remittent Fevers. With an account of Humboldt's Prophylactic Inoculation of the Venom of a Serpent, at Havana, Cuba. 82 pages, 8vo. $1.00.

Neidhard, Dr. C. Diphtheria, as it prevailed in the United States from 1860 to 1866, preceded by an Historical Account of its Phenomena, its Nature, and Homœopathic Treatment. 176 pages, 8vo. $1.75.

☞ This treatise is the result of the author's researches, and experience gained by attending about one hundred and eighty malignant or severe cases of Diphtheria and Diphtheritic Croup, and at least four hundred and twenty slighter cases of the disease.

New Provings of Cistus Canadensis, Cobaltum, Zingiber, and Mercurius Proto-Iodatus. 96 pages, 8vo. 75 cents.

North American Journal of Homœopathy. Published Quarterly, on the first days of August, November, February, and May. Edited by S. Lilienthal, M.D. Vol. I, New Series, commenced in August, 1869. Subscription price, per volume, in advance, $4.00. Complete sets of the first eighteen volumes, in half morocco binding, including index to the same, $75.00. Index to the first eighteen volumes, $2.00.

Peters, Dr. J. C. A Complete Treatise on Headaches and Diseases of the Head. I—The Nature and Treatment of Headaches. II—The Nature and Treatment of Apoplexy. III—The Nature and Treatment of Mental Derangement. IV—The Nature and Treatment of Irritation, Congestion, and Inflammation of the Brain and its Membranes. Based on Th. J. Rückert's "Clinical Experience in Homœopathy." 586 pages, 8vo. $3.00.

Peters, Dr. J. C. A Treatise on Apoplexy, with an Appendix on Softening of the Brain, and Paralysis. Based on Th. J. Rückert's "Clinical Experience in Homœopathy." 164 pages, 8vo. $1.00.

Peters, Dr. J. C. The Diseases of Females and Married Females. Second edition. Two parts in one volume. 356 pages, 8vo. $1.50.

Peters, Dr. J. C. The Diseases of Married Females. Disorders of Pregnancy, Parturition, and Lactation. 196 pages, 8vo. $1.00.

Peters, Dr. J. C. A Treatise on the Principal Diseases of the Eyes, including Diseases of the Eyelids, Conjunctiva, Cornea, Sclerotica, Crystalline Lens, Choroid, Retina, and Optic Nerve. Based on Th. J. Rückert's "Clinical Experience in Homœopathy." 291 pages, 8vo. $1.50.

Peters, Dr. J. C. A Treatise on the Internal Diseases of the Eyes, including Diseases of the Iris, Crystalline Lens, Choroid, Retina, and Optic Nerve. Based on Th. J. Rückert's "Clinical Experience in Homœopathy." 123 pages, 8vo. $1.00.

Peters, Dr. J. C. A Treatise on the Inflammatory and Organic Diseases of the Brain. Based on Th. J. Rückert's "Clinical Experience in Homœopathy." 156 pages, 8vo. $1.00.

Peters, Dr. J. C. A Treatise on Nervous Derangements and Mental Disorders. Based on Th. J. Rückert's "Clinical Experience in Homœopathy." 104 pages, 8vo. $1.00.

Physician's Visiting List. The Homœopathic. By R. Faulkner, M.D., with a Repertory by W. J. Blakely, M.D. Morocco, gilt edge, 12mo. $2.00.

☞ This visiting list differs materially from any hitherto published, and has been arranged with a view of affording the physician a book much less cumbersome than those at present in use, and yet containing everything necessary in a work of this kind. This has been accomplished by increasing the length, and by the omission of a large number of pages usually devoted to subjects entirely foreign, and of which but little use is made by the physician.

Practical Guide to the Treatment of the Common Disorders with Homœopathic Remedies. With Instructions as to Diet and Hygienic Recommendations. 64 pages, 64mo. 20 cents.

Philadelphia Journal of Homœopathy, edited by W. A. Gardiner, M.D., assisted by the following contributors: Drs. B. F. Joslin, A. H. Okie, H. C. Preston, I. P. Dake, P. P. Wells, W. E. Payne, C. Dunham, Jas. Kitchen, W. S. Helmuth, A. E. Small, S. R. Dubbs. 4 volumes. Bound, 8vo. $8.00.

Rapou, Dr. A. Treatise on Typhoid Fever and its Homœopathic Treatment Translated from the French. By A. A. Granville. 96 pages, 12mo. 50 cents.

☞ Dr. Rapou has earned his title to instruct us on the subject he has chosen, at the bedside of from seventy to eighty patients attacked with Typhoid Fever, in all degrees of severity, of whom he has not lost a single case.

Rau, Dr. G. L. Organon of the Specific Healing Art of Homœopathy. By C. J. Hempel, M.D. 200 pages, 8vo. $1.25.

Raue, Dr. C. G. Special Pathology and Diagnosis, with Therapeutic Hints. 644 pages, extra 8vo. $5.00.

☞ This standard work is used as a text-book in all our colleges, and is found in almost every physician's library. An especially commendable feature is, that it contains the application of nearly all the new remedies contained in Dr. Hale's work on Materia Medica.

Raue, Dr. C. G. Annual Record of Homœopathic Literature, 1870, 496 pages, 8vo. $3.50.

Raue, Dr. C. G. Annual Record of Homœopathic Literature, 1871, 255 pages, 8vo. $2.50.

Raue, Dr. C. G. Annual Record of Homœopathic Literature, 1872, 338 pages, 8vo. $3.00.

Raue, Dr. C. G. Annual Record of Homœopathic Literature, 1873, 332 pages, 8vo. $3.00.

Raue, Dr. C. G. Annual Record of Homœopathic Literature, 1874, 376 pages, 8vo. $3.00.

Reil, Dr. A. Monograph on Aconite, its Therapeutic and Physiological Effects, together with its Uses and Accurate Statements, derived from the various sources of Medical Literature. Translated from the German by H. B. Millard, M.D. Prize essay. 168 pages, 8vo. 75 cents.

☞ Few remedies in the Materia Medica enjoy a higher and more deserved reputation for usefulness than that which is the subject of this Monograph, or have received more consideration from writers eminent in medicine, of every age and school. The Essay of Dr. Reil, containing the most recent facts and experience in relation to the subject, and completely exhausting, as it does, everything of interest connected with it, may be justly regarded as the most thorough and complete treatise upon Aconite ever yet presented.

Rokitansky's Pathological Anatomy. The Abnormal Conditions of the Organs of Respiration. Translated from the German, with additions on Diagnosis from Schönlein, Skoda, and others, by J. C. Peters, M.D. 164 pages, 8vo. 75 cents.

☞ Rokitansky's book is what it professes to be: it is morbid anatomy in its densest and most compact form, scarcely ever alleviated by cases, histories, or hypotheses; it is just such a work as might be expected from its author, who is said to have written in it the results of his experience gained in the careful examination of over twelve thousand bodies, and who is possessed of a truly marvelous power of observing and amassing facts.

Rueckert, Dr. E. F. Therapeutics; or, Successful Homœopathic Cures, collected from the best Homœopathic periodicals. Translated and edited by C. J. Hempel, M.D. 496 pages, 8vo. $4.00.

☞ We possess a rich treasure of successful cures, all of which are of great importance to the practitioner. Those cures which have been effected by one single, or at most two or three remedies, appear to be the most instructive, and the present collection is chiefly composed of such cases. The author has intermixed them with practical remarks, and he constantly indicates the source whence the information has been derived.

Ruddock, Dr. E. H. The Diseases of Infants and Children, and their Homœopathic Treatment, with Hints on the General Management of Children. $2.00.

Ruoff's Repertory of Homœopathic Medicine. Nosologically arranged. Translated from the German by A. H. Okie, M.D. With additions and improvements by G. Humphrey, M.D. 251 pages, 12mo. $1.50.

☞ As a book of reference for the practitioner, the present work far excels every other work, presenting him at a glance what he might otherwise seek for amidst a confused mass of records and never find. The indefatigable author has drawn his matter from the infallible results of experience, leaving out all guesswork and hypothesis.

Rush, Dr. John. Veterinary Surgeon. The Hand-Book to Veterinary Homœopathy, or the Homœopathic Treatment of Horses, Cattle, Sheep, Dogs, and Swine. From the London edition. With numerous additions from the seventh German edition of Dr. F. E. Günther's "Homœopathic Veterinary." Translated by J. F. Sheek, M.D. 150 pages, 24mo. 50 cents.

Schaefer, J. C. New Manual of Homœopathic Veterinary Medicine. An easy and comprehensive arrangement of diseases, adapted to the use of every owner of domestic animals, and especially designed for the farmer, living out of the reach of medical advice, and showing him the way of treating his sick horses, cattle, sheep, swine, and dogs, in the most simple, expeditious, safe, and cheap manner. Translated from the German, with numerous additions from other veterinary manuals. By C. J. Hempel, M.D. 321 pages, 8vo. $2.00.

Schuessler, Dr. The Twelve Tissue Remedies and Their Use in Trituration, recommended for investigation. By C. Hering, M.D Third edition, much improved. I—Introduction. II—History. III—How they were Found. IV—Indications. V—Repertory. 91 pages, 16mo. 60 cents.

Sharp, W. Tracts on Homœopathy. Twelve numbers, 50 cents. Bound in muslin, 12mo. 75 cents.

Small, Dr. A. E. Manual of Homœopathic Practice, for the use of Families and Private Individuals. Fourteenth enlarged edition. 831 pages, 8vo. $3.00.

Small, Dr. A. E. Manual of Homœopathic Practice. Translated into German. By C. J. Hempel, M.D. Eleventh edition. 643 pages, 8vo. $3.00.

Small, Dr. A. E. The Pocket Manual of Homœopathic Practice. Abridged from the "Manual of Homœopathic Practice." By J. F. Sheek, M.D. 126 pages, 36mo. 40 cents.

Small, Dr. A. E. Diseases of the Nervous System, to which is added a Treatise on the Diseases of the Skin, by Dr. C. E. Toothacker. 216 pages, 8vo. $1.00.

☞ This treatise is from the pen of the distinguished author of the well-known and highly popular work, entitled "Small's Domestic Practice;" it contains an elaborate description of the various diseases of the nervous system, together with a full statement of the remedies which have been used with beneficial effect in the treatment of these disorders.

Stapf, Dr. E. Additions to the Materia Medica Pura. Translated by C. J. Hempel, M.D. 292 pages, 8vo. $1.50.

☞ This work is an indispensable appendix to Hahnemann's Materia Medica Pura. Every remedy is accompanied with extensive and most interesting clinical remarks and a variety of cases illustrative of its therapeutical uses.

Tarbell, Dr. J. A. Sources of Health and the Prevention of Disease; or, Mental and Physical Hygiene. 170 pages, 12mo. 50 cents.

Tessier, Dr. J. P. Clinical Researches concerning the Homœopathic Treatment of Asiatic Cholera. Translated by C. J. Hempel, M.D. 109 pages, 8vo. 75 cents.

Tessier, Dr. J. P. Clinical Remarks concerning the Homœopathic Treatment of Pneumonia, preceded by retrospective views of the Allopathic Materia Medica, and an explanation of the Homœopathic Law of Cure. Translated by C. J. Hempel. 131 pages, 8vo. 75 cents.

Williamson, Dr. W. Diseases of Females and Children, and their Homœopathic Treatment. Third enlarged edition. 256 pages. 12mo. $1.00.

☞ This work contains a short treatise on the Homœopathic treatment of the diseases of females and children, the conduct to be observed during pregnancy, labor, and confinement, and directions for the management of new-born infants.

Wolf, Dr. C. W. Apis Mellifica; or, the Poison of the Honey Bee, considered as a Therapeutic Agent. 80 pages, 12mo. 25 cents.

☞ This is the most elaborate treatise upon the above drug in print, as the author (one of our most skilful physicians) spared no pains in making it an excellent exponent of Apis mellifica and its medical virtues.

THE

HANDBOOK FOR MIDWIVES,

BY

HENRY FLY SMITH, B. A., M. D., OXON.

41 Illustrations.

The midwife will find in the following pages, described in familiar language, all the information necessary for a thorough understanding of so much of the art of midwifery as belongs to her. Technical words and phrases are added and explained, so that she may be able to understand the orders and remarks of the accoucheur, when his scientific assistance is required.

A general anatomical sketch of the human body is given, with an exact description of the parts concerned in the business of conception, pregnancy and delivery. The progress of pregnancy and its signs, the management of natural labor, and of the lying-in state, are minutely detailed. The diseases and accidents peculiar to each condition, the signs and symptoms of *un*natural labor, and the treatment, are fully described as far as the midwife requires for her guidance, and for the recognition of impending danger, demanding the attention of the accoucheur.

Drawings and diagrams are introduced wherever they can be of service in facilitating the understanding of the text. The scope of the book has been generally regulated by the German manual for midwives, writen by Dr. B. Schultze, Professor of Obstetrics in the University of Jena. The works of Cazeau, Churchill, Ramsbotham, Swayne, Meigs, Bedford and other authors have been consulted throughout, and due acknowledgment is here offered for the use made of their well-known standard writings.

A NEW BOOK ON SANITARY SCIENCE.

FILTH DISEASES

AND THEIR PREVENTION.

By JOHN SIMON, M.D., F.R.C.S.,

CHIEF MEDICAL OFFICER OF THE PRIVY COUNCIL AND OF THE LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOARD OF GREAT BRITAIN.

FIRST AMERICAN EDITION.

Printed under the direction of the State Board of Health of Massachusetts. 16*mo. Cloth.* $1.00.

The undersigned members of the Massachusetts State Board of Health would respectfully, but earnestly, urge upon all persons the careful perusal of the following masterly essay by Mr. SIMON, Chief Medical Officer of the Privy Council and of the Local Government Board of England. If the practical suggestions made therein were acted on by all citizens, hundreds of lives now annually doomed to destruction would be saved, and the health and comfort of the people greatly increased.

THE

GYNÆCOLOGICAL RECORD:

A BOOK OF BLANK FORMS,

Intended as an aid to the busy practitioner in recording Gynæcological Cases; with an Appendix of Blank Leaves, and Tables for the ready analysis of the contents of the book. Prepared by JOSEPH G. PINKHAM, A.M., M.D., &c. Approved by the Gynæcological Society. One volume, quarto, half bound in leather. Price, $2.50. Postage, 50 cents extra.

EXTRACT FROM THE PREFACE.

"This book is intended to aid the busy practitioner in making detailed and systematic records of cases occurring in his Gynæcological practice. Its scope will be obvious on inspection. Blank forms are furnished which can be filled out with comparatively little labor. As the same method and order of examination is preserved in each case, a proper basis for comparison is secured; and the minuteness of detail required to fill out the forms renders the physician less liable to overlook points of interest. Under the head of "History" is supposed to be given the patient's own account of her clinical life previous to date, so far as otherwise not brought out. The diagrams will serve the purpose of illustrating the case. On the one representing the anterior aspect of the body may be given the outline of any tumor, area of tenderness, &c.; on the other, the relative position of the several pelvic organs, as seen on a median section. The tables for the analysis of cases are few in number and simple in their plan."

"The forms are very carefully brought out, and will be of great advantage. They will serve not only as a record, but as a complete reminder of what to observe in these cases, and will add much to the accuracy of the diagnosis, and consequently to the success of the treatment." — Medical and Surgical Reporter, Dec. 24, 1870.

"It seems to us to fill most of the requirements, and we cordially recommend it." — New York Medical Journal, Jan. 1871.

"The book is neat, and neatly gotten up." — Lancet and Observer.

"If these cases be well selected and carefully kept, even should only one book be filled by each practitioner, it would make a contribution to Gynæcology which, before many years, would enable us to settle definitely many points in the natural history and therapeutics of uterine diseases which are now most obscure and unsettled." — Medical Times.

"We note with pleasure the use of diagrams with each blank, representing in outline the anterior aspect of the abdomen, and a section of the pelvis." — Boston Medical and Surgical Journal.

The Physiological and Therapeutical Action

OF THE

Bromide of Potassium, Bromide of Ammonium, Bromide of Sodium, and Bromide of Lithium.

By EDWARD H. CLARKE, M.D.,
Professor of Materia Medica in Harvard University;

AND

ROBERT AMORY, M.D.,
Annual Lecturer for 1870–71 on the Physiological Action of Drugs on Man and Animals in the Medical Department of Harvard University.

The work consists of two monographs, supplementary to each other: Part I. treating of the "Therapeutical Action of the Bromide of Potassium and its Kindred Salts," while Part II. has the "Physiological Action of Bromides of Potassium and Ammonium" for its subject.

NOTICES OF THE PRESS.

[From the Doctor, London, June, 1872.]

"Although much has been written on the subject, Drs. Clarke and Amory have succeeded in adding a really valuable little volume to practical Therapeutics."

[From the St. Louis Medical and Surgical Journal, August, 1872.]

"We regard it as a very valuable contribution to medical science, based on careful experiments and clinical observation. Every practitioner should read it."

[From the American Journal of Insanity, July, 1872.]

"We commend the work to those engaged in treating diseases of the nervous system, and to the profession generally."

[From the Richmond and Louisville Medical Journal, June, 1872.]

"This little work can be fully recommended: it costs little; it is concise, lucid, physiologically and therapeutically instructive; embodies much if not all of the valuable material scattered over the vast field of Journalism; it is pleasantly written, well printed, and well bound."

[From the American Journal of Pharmacy, June, 1872.]

"The medical literature in both essays has been extensively consulted, critically examined, and carefully compared with the experiments and observations of the authors; thus many interesting facts have been established which must prove very valuable to the medical practitioner."

[From the Philadelphia Medical Times for June, 1872.]

"Given a pure drug, the physiologist experiments with it upon man and animals, carefully noting its absorption, its elimination, its action while in the economy, and deducts certain conclusions, which he places in the hands of the therapeutist, who, not forgetting the changes produced by a pathological condition, is guided by them in the treatment of disease. Judging by this standard, we pronounce the book before us to be a model. We thank Drs. Clarke and Amory for their contribution, and express a hope that the supply of such books may, like Tennyson's brook, 'go on for ever.'"

THE PASSIONS

In their Relation to Health and Disease.

Translated from the French of Dr. X. BOURGEOIS, by HOWARD F. DAMON, A.M., M.D. 1 vol. 12mo. Cloth. $1.25.

The following are a few of the notices which have been received: —

"There is a world of suggestions for the management of the passions in this book, and their perusal will not fail to work personal profit." — Massachusetts Ploughman.

"There is a delicacy, frankness, candor, and evident sincerity about the composition, that convinces even the casual reader that the author and translator have only the welfare of their fellow-men at heart. It is a treatise on Love and Libertinism, in a right, proper, and intelligent spirit, and of incalculable benefit to the whole community." — The Commonwealth.

"The book bears no trace of the morbid, unhealthy spirit characteristic of many French books upon this subject." — Boston Journal.

"It treats in an exhaustive manner of the sensual vices common to human nature, and points out the shoals and quicksands upon which so many careers are wrecked through perverted indulgence in Love and Libertinism." — Saturday Evening Gazette.

"A careful examination of the book will satisfy the reflecting reader that the author treats this most serious and difficult topic with great professional ability, and with a clearness and propriety of diction and a cogency of argument that cannot fail to be productive of much good." — Boston Daily Globe.

"The subject treated of in this volume is of importance, because of the general ignorance among all classes in regard to it, from a morbid fear of enlightening youth upon the physical ills engendered by misguided passions." — Evening Standard, New Bedford, Mass.

"A very judicious treatment of a very delicate topic. It is full of information, deals practically with physical and social sins, shows their results upon the system, and is a powerful medical plea for virtue and social morality." — Providence Evening Press.

"Many parents, married people, and all charged with watch and care of the young, at least, might derive benefit from its perusal." — Congregationalist.

"This is a timely and highly meritorious work." — The All Day City Item, Philadelphia.

"It treats a delicate subject in language that is unobjectionable to the most fastidious, and the information it contains cannot fail to do a vast amount of good in the age of loose morals. The debasing and unnatural habits of modern society and their fearful consequences on the race are depicted in a startling manner. Immorality and its inevitable train of diseases are warned against." — Sandy Hill Herald, N.Y.

HAND BOOK

OF THE

DISEASES OF THE EYE.

Their Pathology and Treatment.

BY

A. SALOMONS, M.D.,

Fellow of the Massachusetts Medical Society; former Oculist in Government Service at Veehnhizen, Holland, &c.

One volume, 16mo. Colored plate. English cloth. $1.50.

PREFACE.

"The book is divided into two parts: the first includes the pathology and treatment of eye diseases; and the second, the operative surgery of the eye. The practical portions of the work are given with as much detail as possible, and from the experience of the author; and it is hoped they may prove a useful guide, not only to those entering this interesting department of medicine, but also to the busy practitioner, who finds himself unable to peruse the more elaborate treatises on this subject."

From the Philadelphia Medical and Surgical Reporter.

"A synopsis like this, which goes over so much ground in so small a space, is advantageous to the student, in connection with clinical studies, and the perusal of more extended treatises. The definitions are carefully given, accuracy is observed, and lucidity is not sacrificed to brevity. The operations recommended are carefully selected and described. That for Entropium we may particularly mention as in point."

A NEW MANUAL OF PHYSIOLOGY.

A Course of Lectures on Physiology,

As delivered by Professor Küss at the Medical School of the University of Strasbourg. Edited by MATHIAS DUVAL, M.D., formerly Demonstrator of Anatomy at the Medical School of Strasbourg. Translated from the Second and Revised Edition, by ROBERT AMORY, M.D., formerly Professor of Physiology at the Medical School of Maine. 150 Woodcuts inserted in the text. 1 vol. 12mo. 547 pp. Price $2.50.

"M. Küss was one of those modest scientists who love science for itself; who seek for the truth without caring whether they are well spoken of by the world." — Gazette Hebdomadaire.

"The author exhibits a thorough familiarity with the late advances made in physiological science; and, although we have a number of acceptable works on this subject, we welcome this as one particularly well adapted to advanced students. Its terseness gives the reader and student an impression that it is really a great and large work, boiled down to the dimensions of a handbook." — Cincinnati Lancet and Observer.

"I have a good many works on the subject, but all of them seem to me in some respects a little antiquated; and, in the examination I have made of these lectures, they seem to me to meet just the want which I and others of my time feel very urgently. I am also pleased to have some new illustrations, after meeting the old stereotyped ones so many times." — Professor Oliver Wendell Holmes.

"The arrangement of this manual of Physiology is judicious, and its discussions of the various subjects involved concise and accurate." — Philadelphia Medical and Surgical Reporter.

"After a careful reading of the book, we do not hesitate to call it, on the whole, the best treatise on Physiology, of its size, now to be found in English. Küss's style is full of vivacity and elegance, and abounds in picturesque epithets and bits of description, which serve both to fix the reader's attention and to impress his memory." — Boston Medical and Surgical Journal.

"This manual is the only concise treatise wherein the relations of Physiology to Histology are carefully presented, in the English language. The illustrations are both numerous and well executed." — Physician and Pharmacist.

LESSONS

DIAGNOSIS AND TREATMENT OF SURGICAL DISEASES,

Delivered in the month of August, 1865, by Prof. Velpeau.

COLLECTED AND EDITED BY A. REGNARD, INTERNE DES HOSPITAUX. REVISED BY THE PROFESSOR.

TRANSLATED BY W. C. B. FIFIELD, M.D.

1 volume. 16mo. Cloth. $1.00.

NOTICES OF THE PRESS.

"This modest little book contains a statistical résumé, by the author, of his surgical experience in the hospital wards under his care during the year. He treats his subject under the successive headings: Generalities, Fractures, Affections of the Joints, Inflammation and Abscesses, Affections of the Lymphatic System, Burns and Contusions, Affections of the Genito-Urinary Organs, Affections of the Aural Region, Affections of the Eyes, Statistics of Operations. We have a special liking for such works, which give us the most authoritative opinions of the elders of the medical profession, who have reached the time when the judgment is least biased by the rivalries and personal influences which are so apt to mislead younger minds. It is o vastly more value than many more ambitious and bulky works." — Boston Medical and Surgical Journal.

"He not unfrequently surprises us by the simplicity of his expedients for the aid of 'Nature in Disease,' and rarely, if ever, fails in making out his case. As a whole, the work is not only instructive, but entertaining, and may be regarded as one of our landmarks of minor surgery, upon our skill in which much of our success will be found to depend." — Medical Record.

"It is rare that so small a book contains so many suggestions of great practical worth, and throws so much light on certain debated points, as Velpeau's Lessons. Though nominally a review of one year's practice, it is in reality an epitome of the experience of a lifetime." — Detroit Review.

"All who value the teachings of this great man will not lose the opportunity of obtaining them, as presented in this brief and economical form." — Richmond Medical Journal.

ANATOMY OF THE INVERTEBRATA.

By C. Th. V. Siebold. Translated from the German, with Additions and Notes, by Waldo I. Burnett, M.D. 1 vol., 8vo, cloth, bevelled boards, gilt top. $5.00.

"The translation is effected in a very satisfactory manner; the language is clear, and conveys the full meaning of the author, without retaining the German idiom. The editor has enriched it with numerous references, and original notes greatly increase the value of the work. We have not the least doubt that the work will speedily supersede every text-book of Comparative Anatomy which has yet appeared." — Association Medical Journal, London.

This is believed to be, with the editor's valuable and extensive notes, incomparably the best and most complete work on the subject extant, and as such it is commended by Profs. Agassiz, Silliman, Hitchcock, and other scientific and medical men.

Agassiz says: "There is no other work in any language that will bear any comparison with this, in the fulness and accuracy of its descriptions of organs, in the amount and value of the microscopic investigations whose results it embodies, or in the masterly and comprehensive manner in which all its results are systematized, and their subjects classified and grouped."

Love and Libertinism. Translated from the French of Dr. X. Bourgeois, Laureate of the Academy of Medicine of Paris, &c. By Howard F. Damon, A.M., M.D. 16mo, cloth, pp. 224. $1.25.

The following are a few of the notices which have been received: —

"There is a world of suggestions for the management of the passions in this book, and their perusal will not fail to work personal profit." — Massachusetts Ploughman.

"There is a delicacy, frankness, candor, and evident sincerity about the composition, that convince even the casual reader that the author and translator have only the welfare of their fellow-men at heart. It is a treatise on Love and Libertinism, in a right, proper, and intelligent spirit, and of incalculable benefit to the whole community." — The Commonwealth.

"The book bears no trace of the morbid, unhealthy spirit characteristic of many French books upon this subject." — Boston Journal.

A CONTRIBUTION TO THE TREATMENT OF THE VERSIONS AND FLEXIONS OF THE UNIMPREGNATED UTERUS. By EPHRAIM CUTTER, M.D. Twenty-four Illustrations. Second edition, entirely rewritten. 16mo, cloth. $1.50.

"This is an excellent pamphlet on a difficult subject, enriched with many diagrams of the uterine organs, and the pessaries recommended by the author. We do not remember to have seen a clearer exposition of the subject in any work, and can heartily recommend this for perusal." — The Medical Press and Circular, Edinburgh, Jan. 31, 1872.

THEORY OF MEDICAL SCIENCE: The Doctrine of an Inherent Power in Medicine a Fallacy. By WILLIAM R. DUNHAM, M.D. 16mo, cloth. $1.25.

Dr. Edward H. Clarke, formerly Professor of Materia Medica in Harvard University, writes the author: "I have read your book with much satisfaction. It is always pleasant to see one combat an error with energy and skill. You make your points with great distinctness, and support them with great ability. It was always my endeavor, in my lectures on Materia Medica, to insist as strongly as I could that drugs possessed in themselves no occult power, but that what is called their physiological action is the result of the reaction of the system upon the drug, as the latter passed through the former."

C. E. HOBBS'S BOTANICAL HAND-BOOK of Common Local English Botanical and Pharmacopœial Names, arranged in Alphabetical Order, of most of the Crude Vegetable Drugs, &c., in common Use: their Properties, Productions, and Uses, in an Abbreviated Form. 8vo, cloth. $3.50.

"Every druggist and druggist's assistant should have a copy."

CAMPBELL'S CATALOGUE.

FILTH DISEASES AND THEIR PREVENTION. By JOHN SIMON, M.D., F.R.C.S., Chief Medical Officer of the Privy Council and the Local Government Board of Great Britain. First American edition. Printed under the direction of the State Board of Health of Massachusetts. 16mo, cloth. $1.00.

"The undersigned members of the Massachusetts State Board of Health would respectfully, but earnestly, urge upon all persons the careful perusal of the following masterly essay by Mr. Simon, Chief Medical Officer of the Privy Council and of the Local Government Board of England. If the practical suggestions made therein were acted on by all citizens, hundreds of lives now annually doomed to destruction would be saved, and the health and comfort of the people greatly increased."

A COURSE OF LECTURES ON PHYSIOLOGY, delivered at the University of Strasbourg. By E. Küss, Professor of the Faculty of Medicine. Edited by Dr. MATHIAS DUVAL, Prosector to the Faculty of Medicine at Strasbourg. Translated from the revised edition by ROBERT AMORY, Lecturer on Physiology at the Maine Medical School. 1 vol., 12mo, cloth. Illustrated with 152 wood-cuts. Price $2.50.

"We consider the book to be the best of all the later text-books of human physiology that can be placed in the hands of the American student, and we cordially urge its adoption as a manual by those engaged in teaching this intricate and deeply interesting branch of science. Though concisely written, many of its topics are quite elaborately treated." — American Journal of Medical Sciences.

"When we say that, in our opinion, it is the best book that a student can procure, we only state that which is not only our firm conviction, but that of other teachers also." — Medical Press and Circular.

"M. Küss was one of those modest scientists who love science for itself; who seek for the truth without caring whether they are well spoken of by the world." — Gazette Hebdomadaire.

"Professor Küss's work seems to us to be the best students' manual that we have yet seen." — Medico-Chirurgical Review.

"After a careful reading of the book, we do not hesitate to call it, on the whole, the best treatise on Physiology, of its size, now to be found in English. Küss's style is full of vivacity and elegance, and abounds in picturesque epithets and bits of description, which serve both to fix the reader's attention and to impress his memory." — Boston Medical and Surgical Journal.

FINE ART, ILLUSTRATED, AND MISCELLANEOUS WORKS.

Æsop's Fables. New Edition, greatly Enlarged. With about 150 Original Illustrations by ERNEST GRISET. Cloth plain $3.50
Gilt edges 5.00

The text is good. The great excellence of the illustrations consists in this: that they shadow forth the spirit of Æsop. The artist who can make beasts look like these scarce needs to make them talk.—The Guardian.

This will be the popular edition of these inimitable fables with all who have to make book presents or receive them.—British Quarterly.

Arabian Nights. With 350 Illustrations. 760 pages, extra crown 4to, cloth gilt beveled 5.00

*Best levant gilt, silk ends 125.00
*Superb polished levant paneled, watered silk ends 150.00

Doré's Bible will be a monument—the culminating and vastest work of his life, as a work of illustration.—Fine Art Quarterly.

Doré's illustrations are admirable. His fame is world-wide as the most gifted artist in his time as an illustrator of great works.—Richmond Dispatch.

The illustrations alone are worth much more than the cost of the book.—Boston Commonwealth.

Biographical Dictionary. Cassell's. With full-page Portraits of Eminent Men. Imperial 8vo, 1,152 pp., cloth lettered $12.00

Full of ably-condensed memoirs of the lives of the most eminent men and women in every branch of art, etc.—Observer.

Full gilt, gilt edges, each 4.00
*The Four Vols. bound in Two, half calf.. 18.00

The colored birds are really works of art; in fact, much better than many works of art. We have no hesitation in recommending the book.—Land and Water.

The work before us calls for nothing but praise, while its contents are so minute and various that it is impossible to epitomize them.—Examiner.

Bida's Four Gospels. English Edition. With 132 magnificent Etchings on Steel, after Drawings by M. BIDA.
Cloth, Four Vols 100.00
Finest levant, Two Vols 160.00
The Etchings are by the most eminent living Artists, amongst whom we may name MME. HENRIETTE BROWNE, M. BIDA, BODMER, BRACQUEMOND, CHAPLIN, DEBLOIS, FLAMENG, &c. The Steel Engravings are produced with the greatest care, as artists' proofs, and upon the finest India paper, from the Original Plates. The Text is printed from New Type cast expressly for this purpose.

This work, which the Times calls "magnificent," has been more than twelve years in preparation. It contains in all 132 steel engraved plates, and many fine wood-cut ornaments. Its production has cost over $250,000.

M. Bida has produced a set of illustrations better than have ever been prepared to accompany any portion of the Bible.—Independent.

The Leopold Shakspere. Dedicated by permission to H. R. H. PRINCE LEOPOLD. With about 400 Illustrations. 1,184 pages. Small 4to, cloth 4.50
Half calf 7.00
Half morocco 7.00
Full morocco 10.00
Tree calf 10.00

The Text of the LEOPOLD SHAKSPERE is that of Professor DELIUS, of Bonn, who has supplied for the edition a Chronological Arrangement of the Plays and Poems, while an Introduction to the entire Work has been written by Mr. F. J. FURNIVALL, Director of the New Shakspere Society.

This edition is one that all readers of the poet ought to have at hand.—Hartford Courant.

This is decidedly the most interesting and valuable one volume Shakspere which has yet appeared.—New York Tribune.

The introduction by Mr. Furnivall, covering 126 pages, throws much light on obscure passages of the text, and by comparing numerous critical opinions, brings the reader into contact with the leading minds which have been exercised over Shakspere's productions.—Christian Advocate.

Mr. F. J. Furnivall, the ardent founder of the New Shakspere Society, in the introduction freely disburses his special knowledge in minutely describing the career of Shakspere, and showing in their true colors the man and his time. The result is well worth the cost of the volume.—The Nation

COPY BOOKS.

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL SYSTEM OF WRITING EVER ISSUED.

ONLY 80c. PER DOZEN.

EXCELSIOR!

Thompson's Complete System of Practical Business Penmanship.

THE Author has been a teacher of penmanship for several years, and, being acquainted with the many systems of writing now in use, he has had an opportunity of examining their merits, and he has invariably observed that the principles of those systems are so complicated as to confuse the pupil, by leading him into a labyrinth of useless flourishes, unnecessary curves, and superfluous rules. To remedy this evil, so prevalent in our schools, Mr. THOMPSON conceived the idea of presenting a system combining elegance with simplicity, and embracing only those graceful, easy movements suggested by nature and good taste.

BOOK I. contains simple and combined exercises on the first three principles. It is designed to teach the proper method of combining the elements of the thirteen short letters. The page is ruled with horizontal lines. Red lines divide it so that the pupils may write down the columns, and not across the whole page. An analysis of the principles of each letter is given over each copy. After the combinations are fully explained, suggestions are added regarding the method of instruction.

BOOK II. contains the stem and looped letters in combination with the short letters. The complete alphabet is given in this book. Minute directions, embracing form and method of teaching, are placed over the head of each copy. The size of the writing is the same as in the preceding number, and it should not be given to a class until No. 1 has been thoroughly studied and carefully written.

BOOK III. opens with the elements of the capitals, exhibiting at a glance the three principles upon which all the capital letters are founded. It contains both alphabets complete. Each capital is carefully analyzed at the head of the copy in which it occurs. The size of the writing is reduced to that of a large business hand. The height of the capitals and looped letters is regulated by two additional red lines. On each page a column is set apart for figures.

BOOK IV. contains two styles of capitals in alphabetical order. Each style is given singly and in combination with the small letters. The size of the writing is now reduced to correspond with the standard business hand.

BOOK V. contains short sentences alphabetically arranged, with a capital on the left and a word on the right. The special principle of each capital is placed at the beginning of the copy. Abundant practice on each capital is thus secured. Red lines divide the page into columns, but the head-line has been removed so as to allow greater freedom.

BOOK VI. contains long sentences alphabetically arranged. The relative size of the letters is based on a scale of fourths. This book supplies the pupils with the most perfect series of copies ever engraved. Each letter is formed according to the principles explained in the lower number of the series, and the size of the writing is suitable for advanced students. It is an excellent book for ladies who do not admire the angular style of writing.

BOOK VII. is devoted to business forms, including promissory notes, drafts, receipts, checks, and ledger headings. The size of the writing is based on that which has been found most useful for business purposes. The copies furnish approved forms for commercial paper.

BOOK VIII. contains two short sentences on each page, the copies being alphabetically arranged. The head-lines of this book are based on the angular style, and are specimens of the very finest writing. No. 8 is better adapted for ladies than any book of the kind published.

BOOK IX. contains poetic selections, invitations, bills, receipts, and other forms suitable for ladies. The scale, size, and style of the writing are the same as in No. 8.

Books 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7 form a complete series for boys.

Books 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 8, and 9 form a complete series for girls.

The head-lines of this series were engraved by the most skilful artist in the United States. The success which attended his efforts called forth the highest praise, and he has since been engaged by leading publishers to engrave the new editions of their series.

POPULAR LECTURES AND ADDRESSES

OF THE LATE ALEXANDER CAMPBELL.

THE undersigned take pleasure in announcing that they will issue at an early day a new edition of this valuable work. The author, a scholar well read in every department of literature, presents in this volume the result of a life devoted to thought and study. He never substitutes speculations for facts, but confines himself to Religion, Nature, and Society in their truest, broadest, and noblest extent. His wonderful power of reasoning, the ease with which he discusses the most recondite subjects, and the new light he throws upon whatever he touches can not fail to interest every reader. His debates on Infidelity, Catholicism, etc., are among the ablest ever published.

The following Table of Contents give the scope and character of the work:

1. The Anglo-Saxon Language: Its Origin, Character. and Destiny—2. Amelioration of the Social State—3. Responsibilities of Men of Genius—4. Is Moral Philosophy an Inductive Science?—5. Literature, Science, and Art—6. Supernatural Facts—7. The Destiny of Our Country—8. Phrenology, Animal Magnetism, Clairvoyance, Spiritual Rappings, etc.—9. Woman and Her Mission—10. Education—11. Common Schools—12. The Philosophy of Memory and of Commemorative Institutions—13. Colleges—14. Is Capital Punishment sanctioned by Divine Authority?—15. War—16. Fourth-of-July Oration—17. Demonology—18. Life and Death—19. Importance of Uniting the Moral with the Intellectual Culture of the mind—20. The Corner-stone of Bethany College—21, 22. To the Graduates of Bethany College—23, 24, 25. Missionary Addresses—26, 27. Bible Union Addresses.

Price, in Cloth, $3.00, by Mail, Post-paid.

SUBSCRIPTION BOOKS.

THE NEW TESTAMENT COMMENTARY.

TWO VOLUMES NOW READY.

MATTHEW AND MARK, - - - By Prof. J. W. M'Garvey.
HEBREWS, - - - - - By President R. Milligan.

These two volumes, which we now offer by subscription, are the first of the series which we have announced under the title of The New Testament Commentary, and embrace the Gospels of Matthew and Mark and the Epistle to the Hebrews. It is the first attempt at a treatment of the Living Oracles, in the form of a Commentary, from the point of view in which they are regarded by the Disciples; and, in addition to this feature, the work possesses other characteristics which entitle it to especial attention.

Each volume of the Commentary will be complete in itself, and each author is alone responsible for his own work. All will be bound uniformly, and sold at the following prices:

In Black English Cloth, $2.00. Sheep, Library Style, $2.50. Half-calf Antique, $3.00

THE PROBLEM OF PROBLEMS.

By CLARK BRADEN, President Abingdon College.

This long-expected work on Evolution, Darwinism, Atheistic Theories of Development, Theism, and kindred topics, has just been issued. It states briefly the demands of the problem for which Evolution and Darwinism undertake to give a solution, and exposes thoroughly their failures. It shows the relation of Religion and Science, and especially of Geology, to the statements of the Scriptures. 12mo. 480 pages. Cloth. $2.00.
